CARDINALS ELECT POPE

BOSTON REFUGEES ARRIVE ON ARABIC

DELLA CHIESA CHOSEN; NAME BENEDICT XV.

ROME, Sept. 3.—The name Giocomo Della Chiesa, the new Pope, literally translated, means in English "James of the Church."

ROME, Sept. 3.—Less than four months after he had been elevated to the Cardinalate, Cardinal Della Chiesa, Archbishop of Bologna, Italy, was today elected to the papacy, succeeding Pope Pius X., who died on August 20. He will be known as Benedict XV.

The election of Cardinal Della Chiesa, who was made a cardinal on May 23 last, at the last consistory, came as a surprise, as his name had not been mentioned among the list of prominent candidates. His candidature was put forward as a compromise when the contest between the supporters of Cardinal Maffi and Cardinal Ferrata threatened to grow into a deadlock.

Cardinal Giacomo Della Chiesa was made archbishop of Bologna in December, 1907, succeeding the late Cardinal Domenico Svampa. He was born in Genoa in 1854 and was formerly assistant to papal Secretary of State Merry Del Val. He was ordained as a priest in 1878.

Previously the appointment of papal nuncio to the Madrid court had been offered to him, but he declined. The Vatican had gone so far as to make out the official papers naming him the papal nuncio, but he refused to accept them.

TAKES SAME BENEDICT XV.

Announcement was made at the Vatican that the new Pope would take the name of Benedict XV. It has been 156 years since an occupant of the papal chair has borne the name of Benedict. Pope Benedict XV. is the 260th Pope. His coronation, according to a recent announcement by the Vatican, will not take place until peace is declared in Europe.

The election of Cardinal Della Chiesa took place upon the second ballot today. Despite a falling rain a crowd of 40,000 had gathered in St. Peter's square to watch for the smoke which proclaims the burning of ballots.

BESTOWS BLESSING.

At 6:50 o'clock a thin column of smoke ascended through the drizzle, giving notice that another ballot had been taken in vain. This wheeled the expectancy of the crowd and the throng about the Vatican increased in size. Later, when no more smoke arose from the Vatican chimney, excitement ran high among the populace and the word ran from mouth to mouth that a sovereign pontiff had been elected.

Immediately after his election Cardinal Della Chiesa appeared upon the balcony of St. Peter's and bestowed his first papal blessing, addressed to all the peoples of the Roman Catholic church.

Before this, however, workmen had to break down the doors of Conclave Hall, in the Vatican, which had been sealed since Monday when the conclave was formally opened.

All of the deliberations took place in secret according to the laws and traditions of the church, but it was authentically reported that the assembled prelates came to the conclusion to support Cardinal Della Chiesa

How the Election of the New Pope Was Announced

First announcement that the new Pope was elected was made by Cardinal Camerlengo, who said: "I bring you tidings of great joy. We have as Pope, the Most Eminent and Reverend My Lord Cardinal Giacomo Della Chiesa, who has assumed the name of Benedict XV."

BULLETINS

REPORT GERMANS ASK FOR ARMISTICE.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—Wounded officers who arrived here today from the front declared that thousands of Germans had been trapped in marshes in the forest of Compiegne and cut to pieces. They said the Germans had requested General Pau to grant an armistice, but that he had refused. British melenite is causing terrific destruction among the enemy, they added, the shells blowing masses of Germans many yards into the air.

SPAIN READY TO FIGHT WITH FRANCE.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—"Spain will send its army to help France if it is needed," declared Senor Lerroux, the famous Spanish radical leader on the arrival here from Madrid today. "I have consulted prominent Spanish statesmen and am sure that Spain will help if it is asked. King Alfonso would personally lead his army."

JAPS TAKE ISLAND DEFENCES.

TOKIO, Sept. 3.—Japanese forces have seized seven islands around Kiao-Chau and are mounting guns to bombard Tsing-Tao. The capture of the islands, which lie inside and outside the bay of Kiao-Chau was effected with some loss of life, the Admiralty stated today. Before the Japanese troops were landed the bay was swept at night for mines and more than 1,000 removed. One Japanese boat was hit by a shell from the Tsing-Tao forts and badly damaged. With the capture of the islands Tsing-Tao is practically surrounded by land and sea.

PRESIDENT POINCARE GOES TO BORDEAUX

PARIS, Sept. 3.—President Poincare and his cabinet have left for Bordeaux, the new French seat of government, where they will arrive in the morning.

SWEDISH STEAMER SUNK BY MINE.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 3.—The Swedish steamer St. Paul struck a mine today and sank within ten minutes. Her crew of twenty-five men was saved.

SWEDEN REITERATES NEUTRALITY.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 3.—The Swedish government today reiterates its neutrality in an official statement denying statements that it would join in the war.

FRENCH FLEET BOMBARDS CATTARO.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—It is officially announced that the French fleet in the Adriatic bombarded the Austrian city of Cattaro on Tuesday, its shells striking the forts with terrific effect and demolishing several buildings.

President to Ask for a War Tax of $100,000,000

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—President Wilson will deliver a message to a joint session of Congress at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow and ask for $100,000,000 as a war tax. His message will be brief and will not go into the ways and means of raising the money. He held a conference with Representative Underwood today and it was agreed that a measure embodying the President's ideas will be introduced in the House next Monday.

FRENCH CLOSE PARIS GATES; PREPARE FOR GREAT SIEGE

PETROGRAD, Sept. 3.—The surrender of Lemberg, capital of Austrian Galicia, is announced by Minister of War Sukhomlinoff.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—"The Germans are near the fortifications of Paris," says a dispatch from Gournay, France. Gournay is about thirty miles east of Rouen, midway between Rouen and Beauvais.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—Paris is in a state of siege. All but two gates were closed today. The military zone in the suburbs and in the neighborhood of the capital was evacuated. Fresh troops were brought into the city and distributed at various forts.

General Gallieni, military governor of Paris, issued a proclamation at noon, saying:

"I have received a mandate to defend Paris against the invader. I will do so up to the last extremity."

Martial law prevails. Prefect of Police Celestin Hennion has resigned on the ground of sickness. M. Laurent has been named to succeed him. The only gates left open were Porte Maillot, on the northwest side of the city, and Porte de Bercy, on the southwest. Both are strongly guarded and barricades have been erected a few hundred feet from them to prevent a surprise attack.

Through the Porte Maillot refugees from the districts north of the city are rushing in. Through the

'BRAVES WILL WIN PENNANT'

—CONNIE MACK.

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

Connie Mack declares the Braves will win the pennant. This is the opinion of one of the most astute baseball generals the game has ever produced. Mack says little, and what he says means something.

"Nothing to it," said Mack today. "The Braves will win all right. Any team that can do what they have done in the last six or seven weeks will grab the National League pennant.

It is evident that Connie doesn't share the belief of McGraw, Mathewson and other player-writers that the Braves will "crack."

"No chance for that at this stage of the game," affirmed the leader of the Athletics. "They started their present climb on their second trip to the West, didn't they? And then they cleaned up on home grounds. And then they went West again and kept on winning, didn't they? Nothing to it, I say. The Braves will win the pennant, sure.

STIRRING STORIES OF THE WAR

The White Star liner Arabic docked at the Commonwealth Pier at noon today, and immediately there streamed across her gang plank 1,309 war refugees, nearly all of them stranded Americans—an army of joys, all happy to get home and each with a story to tell of thrilling experiences in the embattled countries of Europe.

Dr. Francis D. Donoghue, one of the most prominent of those on board, told of having seen the battle at Liege from a hilltop, of having witnessed the spectacle of aeroplanes dueling with the Liege forts, and of having seen German soldiers shoot up a part of the town of Verviers, killing sixteen townspeople.

Dr. Donoghue said the anti-German feeling was unfair and that the stories of atrocities were probably exaggerated, and that the Germans made the claim that the inhabitants of Belgium

PARIS NOW AN ARMED CAMP AS FRENCH PREPARE TO MEET GERMAN SIEGE

GOVERNMENT SEEKS SAFETY AT BORDEAUX

By FRANKLIN P. MERRICK,
American Staff Correspondent.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—President Poincare and the members of the French government have fled to Bordeaux.

Amiens has been captured by the Germans, Boulogne had been abandoned, thus becoming an open city for occupancy by the German forces whenever they see fit.

All of Northern France, from Dieppe on the English Channel to Montmedy on the Belgian border, is now under control of the Germans.

For the second time in history the soldiers of Germany have compelled the abandonment of Paris as the seat of the central government. The first time was in 1871, when the Prussians drove the administrative department to Bordeaux.

The removal of the archives began yesterday afternoon. President Poincare, members of his cabinet and all the government embassies of the allied nations left at 10:55 last night for Bordeaux, where they will stay during hostilities.

HERRICK WILL STAY.

Myron T. Herrick, the United States ambassador to France, has taken charge of the archives of the embassies of all belligerent powers and will remain here. First Secretary Robert Bliss of the American embassy will also stay.

John W. Garrett, American Ambassador to Argentina, has gone to Bordeaux to represent the United States at the temporary French capital. He was accompanied by the third secretary and by Captain Parker.

The cause of the removal of the French government was set forth in a proclamation signed first by Premier Poincare, then by Premier Rene Viviani and the other members of the Cabinet.

Meanwhile the work of strengthening the fortifications around the city goes on day and night, the French being spurred to the utmost action by continued reports of German successes in the northeast.

A number of Americans are still here. The action of Ambassador Herrick in remaining in Paris affords protection to citizens of the United States, as the ambassadorial residence is neutral territory. The presence of Mr. Herrick also makes possible the continuance of American financial operations.

The banking house of Morgan, Harjes & Co., the French branch of J. P. Morgan & Co., is still open, while the same firm has dispatched an enormous amount of money to Bordeaux by special messenger.

PRISONERS REMOVED.

The German prisoners that were brought here are being removed to Lennes and Nantes.

Paris is rapidly becoming a great armed camp and preparations to resist a siege are going on fast and furious. The people are becoming hardened to the perils of war and the presence of German aeroplanes over the city, and even aerial battles such as occurred yesterday arouse more curiosity than fear.

It is the view of War Minister Millerand, General Galliemi, the commander of the defensive forces, and the other military authorities that Paris will at once become the pivot of military operations n Northern France. The French forces around the city will give battle when German invaders before the actual siege can begin and the manoeuvres of the troops around this city are expected to cover extensive territory.

Ex-Premier Clemenceau, writing of the present operations and the abandonment of the capital by the administrative forces of the government, says:

"All these battles without decisive result are but the prelude to the mighty encounter, for they are so many checks on the march of the German armies upon Paris."

STILL HOLDS FIELD.

After the capitulation of Sedan and the investment of Metz in the Franco-Prussian war, France was without an army. There is no parallel between then and the present situation. The French army holds the field. It has suffered much, but it has inflicted no less cruel losses upon the enemy, and ours should more easily be made good.

Indefatigable, the army is standing its ground everywhere with varying fortunes, as is inevitable in all war. It is being forced back at certain points and advancing at others. The struggle is so completely centralized that even if we yield at any particular spot, the German armies will have to cover his liberty to take the offensive. As long as we have Germany's full strength against us we have the hope to rush the enemy back to the frontier. To harass the invading troops, to dispute the ground with them and to cut them off from their base whenever possible are appreciable results pending the moment an offensive operation might be attempted.

RUSSIANS VICTORIOUS IN TWO BIG BATTLES

By FRANCIS LAVELLE MURRAY,
Staff Correspondent of the American.

PETROGRAD (St. Petersburg), Sept. 3.—Complete rout of the Austrian army of 160,000 east of Lemberg and defeat of the German garrison of Koenigsberg when it attempted to sortie was announced by the Russian general staff today.

It is stated that the Austrian army, consisting of three full corps and parts of two others, lost 40,000 killed, wounded and prisoners and 150 guns. Part of the retreating Austrians fled into Lemberg, but the other fortifications of that city have been captured and the surrender of the troops bottled up in the inner works is expected within a few hours.

"The Austrian army that opposed our march through Galicia, east of Lemberg, has been crushed," says the official statement.

"After a battle of three days the Austrians were routed. At least 20,000 were killed, 13,000 wounded and 10,000 taken prisoners. We also took 150 guns, 32 of them big pieces with which our passage of the Zeleta Lipa River was opposed.

"After our magnificent victory the enemy retreated with our troops in hot pursuit. Part of the fleeing army took refuge in Lemberg, but we captured the outer fortresses there and the Austrians are shut up in the inner fort. To escape death under our guns they must surrender.

"The rest of the retreating army fell back northwest of Lemberg and are now engaged with our advance guards. The fighting is severe, but we seem to have the advantage."

That part of the statement relating to the campaign in East Prussia was as follows:

REPULSE GERMAN SORTIE.

"The German garrison at Koenigsberg attempted a sortie with the purpose of striking General Rennenkampf's army on the right flank. The enemy was driven back with heavy losses.

"We are meeting with steady success, but we regret to state that General Samsonoff was killed by a German shell near Orteisburg where we engaged with the enemy after strong German reinforcements had arrived General Pestitch and General Martos were mortally wounded."

General Samsonoff became famous as a leader of the Cossacks in the Russo-Japanese war. In the East Prussian campaign he and General Martos each commanded a corps.

"While our advance was temporarily halted by the stiffened opposition of the German troops who had called to their assistance the garrisons of Thorn and Graudenz, we have strengthened our lines and are again pressing on."

Another statement issued by the general staff today says:

"Russian cavalry have penetrated far into the interior of Eastern Prussia, destroying German lines of communication. They occupied the station of Korschen. In the district between Soldau and Sensburg the Germans remain inactive.

BIG BATTLE RAGING

(More than a week ago the Russian general staff announced that Soldau had been taken. Today's statement would show that the Germans are as far east as Sensburg, which is 62 miles northeast of Soldau. Korschen is southeast of Koenigsburg).

The Russian capital is jubilant over the defeat of the Austrian armies and operations are made on all sides that within a month both Berlin and Vienna will be occupied by Russian troops. The correspondent of the News Agency who is with the Russian army in East Prussia, sends the following dispatch:

"The first favorable impression caused by the death of General Samsonoff and the heavy losses of his army has been wiped out. With the aid of General Rennenkampf's forces, the enemy was brought to a standstill, and on the arrival of reinforcements the Russians began a counter [illegible] and the Germans were driven back to the [illegible] is raging."

TEN DAYS OF FIGHTING.

Additional details received by the War Office today show that fierce fighting has been going on in Galicia for more than ten days, the Austrians struggling desperately to stop the Russian advance. A week ago Wednesday the Russian infantry came into contact with the main Austrian army. Though the Austrians had checked the Cossacks, they were unable to stop the infantry and had to withdraw. On Monday they were forced to give battle or be surrounded. Terrific fighting followed. The Russian infantry smashed the centre despite a deadly fire poured upon them by the Austrian artillery, and at the same time 4,000 Russian cavalry attacked the right and left wings of the Austrians. Until noon of Wednesday they withstood the attack, but then broke and fled.

ALLIES STILL HOLD THE GERMAN CENTRE

Porte de Bercy Parisians anxious to escape the rigors of the siege are departing in a steady stream.

Allies' Centre Holds.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—The French centre still holds. Every attempt of the Germans to break through has been checked.

This was the assertion made today by General Galliemi, military governor of Paris, after he had received official reports from the front. The general has taken up his quarters at the War Office, where he is assisted by attaches left behind when the Cabinet departed for Bordeaux.

"The military operations are regarded without apprehension," he said. "As long as the German centre is held in check the right cannot continue to advance without the risk of being cut off from the main army. The Germans are tried for time, and doubtless will be obliged to take the offensive. However, we feel that the odds are against them in the next decisive battle, which the allies look forward to with confidence.

MEETS WOUNDED MEN.

"I went to the Porte Maillot this afternoon and met a number of wounded French officers returning from the front. They all praised the valor of the Germans and declared that reports of the invaders killing wounded on the battlefield were untrue.

"Those stories are false," said one. "On the contrary French wounded taken by German ambulances are well cared for by German surgeons. If any murders have been committed, the German medical corps must not be held responsible."

The crisis in the world's greatest battle has been reached. The Germans have thrown the full weight of their legions into the combat in Northeastern France. The left wing of the allied Anglo-French army has been pushed back to the Oise River, along which furious fighting is in progress.

The French and British soldiers, falling back step by step, have inflicted enormous losses upon the Germans, but so far have failed to give a decisive check to the steady advance of the invaders. This was the situation today as revealed in brief official report by War Office.

Hard fighting is going around the Forest of Compiegne, less than fifty miles northeast of Paris, where a corps of German cavalry engaged the British in an effort to cut through the French and British line.

Further east, on a line between Longpont and Couey, another German cavalry corps is pushing against the allied line. All along the line in that region the French and British troops are protected by earthworks, which are being shelled by the German advance guard.

FIGHT IN DENSE FOG.

At some points British cavalry took the offensive in order to cover the retreat of the infantry and artillery when pressure from the German right flank became too heavy.

An important section of the general engagement was fought at Bapaume, ninety miles northeast of Paris. This fight took place in a dense fog, during which there was danger of soldiers firing on members of their own army.

The French were suffering heavily under the machine gun fire of the Germans when British reinforcements arrived unexpectedly upon the field. The British soldiers filed into the positions occupied by the French and the latter retreated, being worn out by the fierce onslaughts of the Germans.

Although hard pressed by overwhelming numbers, the British put up a magnificent rear guard action.

The northwest wing of the allied army is now strung out in a wide formation with the British forces on the apex, standing the brunt of the fighting. Although the allies have driven back the allies they have not succeeded in crumpling up either side of this angle. The allies also have the advantage of moving on interior lines. That is to say, they are the inside of the angle they can move troops more quickly from one point to another than the Germans.

ALLIES IN STRONG POSITION.

With their strong left wing resting on the strongly fortified line of the Paris forts, and with their right wing strengthened by the defensive line from Verdun to Belfort, the allies will occupy a position of enormous military strength. If the Germans concentrate against the left front of the French and British, the French reserve armies can assemble west of the Seine, rush forward and attack the invaders upon the flank.

If in their effort to continue the great turning movement the Germans push forward across the Seine and try by encircling the forts of Paris to gain the rear of the allied armies, the French can make their reserve corps behind the centre at Rheims and push against the weakened German centre. The Germans along the great battle line in the north are fighting like mad to succeed, and the officers are evidently being urged daily by the Kaiser to cut a road through to Paris and to capture the city without an hour's delay.

Meanwhile the work of the army is now struggling in the death grapple is historic ground. The old drill ground of the French army lies in the Forest of Compiegne. On the edge of the forest is the palace in which Napoleon Bonaparte passed his honeymoon with Marie Louise. A mile within the forest stands the chateau in which John D. Rockefeller lived during his trip to France some years ago. Desperate fighting with cavalry dashes, infantry charges and artillery duels is going on with all the fury of known warfare across this district.

Both sides are believed to be losing heavily, although it is obvious that the German losses would be the heavier, owing to the entrenchments of the allies.

The French military authorities declare that it would require an army of 2,000,000 men to invest Paris successfully on all sides.

TURKS ARE REPORTED MARCHING ON GREECE

ROME, Sept. 3.—An unconfirmed report from Athens says that a Turkish army is marching across the seventy-five mile wide strip of Bulgarian territory bordering the Aegean Sea to invade Greece.

If this is true, the objective of the Turks is evidently the newly acquired Greek territory between Kavala and Salonika, if not Salonika itself. It is believed that Turkey has an army of at least 600,000 men under arms. German officers, who have been arriving at Constantinople in great numbers, have been distributed among the Turkish army to give it the backbone of discipline and to conceive strategic movements.

The general belief has been that if Turkey goes to war at the urging of Germany, hostilities would be commenced simultaneously against Russia and Greece and possibly England.

The belief is expressed that Turkey may send three flying armies against her foes. One across Bulgaria into Greece, another into the Caucasus to strike Russia and a third into Egypt against the English. In the event of war in the Caucasus, Russia would undoubtedly strike at Constantinople, the goal of Russian aspirations in that direction for many years. Constantinople's defences then would likely be conducted by German army officers.

REPORT DECLARATION.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Turkey is understood here to have declared war on the Allies.

A cablegram from London, however, asserts:

At the Turkish embassy in London it is reiterated that Turkey is and intends to remain strictly neutral."

The Turkish embassy in Washington repeats the London assertion of neutrality.

Nevertheless, reports have reached here that Turkey has 600,000 troops mobilized ready for instant action.

A diplomat friendly to the Turkish program says: "The first act of the Turkish campaign will be directed simultaneously against Russia and England.

TALK OF "HOLY WAR."

"Turkey has struggled against giving up its neutrality," said this diplomat, "but she has seen that the present struggle, so far as she is concerned, is only the beginning of a greater and more devastating struggle among the nations of Europe. In the struggle she would have everything to lose whether the Allies won or Germany and Austria were victorious. Therefore, she must defend her own hand."

In the case of the Allies winning the present struggle, the diplomat declared that Turkey would be disinterested in the apportionment of the spoils and she would find herself shorn of much of her power in the second stage of the struggle began and English Germany and Russia would have joined hands to curb the Slav peoples.

"This will be an inevitable consequence of Russian victory," he asserted.

The same authority hinted that Turkey with Germany's assistance, had not been idle in fomenting unrest and discontent among the Mahometan soldiers of Great Britain and France.

Agents of the German and Turkish governments are reported to have worked assiduously to transform the European struggle into a "holy war," so far as Turkey was concerned.

ARMY MOVE ON RUSSIA.

A Petrograd dispatch conveys a semi-official statement to the effect that in well informed circles there the opinion is expressed that war between Turkey and Greece is only a question of two or three days.

Numerous Turkish troops, the dispatch states, have landed on the shores of Asia Minor at Smyrna, while near Chatalja, and to the east of Scutari, fortifications are being thrown up under the direction of German officers.

A news ticker says:

"London—Unconfirmed reports are current here that Turkey has declared war on Russia. Communication with Constantinople has been cut off since days."

A. Rustem Bey, the Turkish Ambassador, denied that he had any information leading him to believe Turkey had declared war on Russia. The Ambassador said that he expected that the United States would be asked to take charge of the Turkish embassy in St. Petersburg in case hostilities should take place.

GERMAN TROOPS CALLED FROM FRANCE AID PRUSSIA DEFENCE

PETROGRAD (St. Petersburg), Sept. 3.—The general staff announced today that troops called from northern frontier of France had reinforced the Germans in East Prussia, issuing the following statement:

"The Russians continue to progress in the northern regions of eastern Prussia. In the south the Germans have been reinforced by troops from the French frontier. They have ten powerful siege guns. The Russians have also been reinforced."

RELIEF WITH HUMIDITY AT NORMAL MARK

Life-saving relief came today from the combination of high temperature and high humidity which caused one death and seven prostrations in Greater Boston in the past twenty-four hours.

This refreshing weather will continue for the present, according to the following local forecast:

"Fair and cooler tonight. Fair Friday. Moderately variable winds."

Lower humidity was the principal factor in the improved conditions today. At 8 a. m. the humidity was 89 per cent., which is one per cent. below normal. The public sweltered and suffered yesterday in the distressing humidity of 94 per cent.

From a midnight temperature of 78 degrees the mercury dropped to 74 at 8 o'clock, then climbed slowly. At 10 o'clock it was 82 degrees, one degree warmer than at the same hour yesterday.

A year ago today Boston's maximum temperature was 86 degrees. September 3, 1900, the mercury climbed to 91. But sixteen years ago there was a September 3 that was a blistering broiler. The mercury went near up to 98 degrees, a killing temperature.

KING AND QUEEN VISIT WOUNDED IN BRITISH HOSPITAL

LONDON, Sept. 3.—King George and Queen Mary today paid an unexpected visit to the Queen Alexandra military hospital, where many of the British officers who were wounded in the fighting in France and Belgium are confined. They spent more than an hour in the hospital and their presence there greatly cheered the disabled soldiers.

The royal couple visited each ward in turn, shook hands with the wounded, and while the King praised them for their bravery the Queen presented each with a little bunch of flowers. The King and Queen expressed the hope that the officers would recover speedily.

"So do we," declared the soldiers.

"The quicker we get well the better we shall like it, because we then can get back to the firing line again."

The royal couple smiled their appreciation of this exhibition of eagerness to fight for England's cause. The King and Queen after paying their visit to all the wounded made a thorough inspection of the hospital equipment and left instructions that everything possible be done for the comfort and speedy recovery of the wounded.

Queen Alexandra, mother of King George and Princess Victoria, also visited the hospital, bringing flowers and fruit to the wounded and spending some time chatting with them.

'Friendship' Safe in Neutral Port, Declares Bryan

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—When Secretary of State Bryan left the White House after a conference with the President today, he was asked:

"Where is the battleship 'Friendship' now, Mr. Secretary?"

"Oh, she's interned in a neutral port," replied Bryan, smiling.

GERMAN AVIATOR WHO DROPPED BOMBS ON PARIS BROUGHT DOWN BY FRENCH

GUNNER ENDS CAREER OF TERROR OF THE SKY

PARIS, Sept. 3.—A German aviator, who passed over Paris early today and dropped five bombs, paid with his life for his daring, according to a telephone message received at the War Office from the commander of Fort Vaujours.

The commander stated that as the aeroplane started to the eastward after escaping shots fired from Forts de Noisy and de Malnville, it was brought down by a gunner firing from Vaujours.

The machine, he said, exploded when it was struck, and the aviator, believed to be a German officer, was killed. The wreckage fell about a kilometre from Vaujours.

This is the first fatality suffered by German aviators in their raids above Paris. The bombs dropped by the aviator before he was slain killed three persons.

The aviator was revealed by a searchlight from the Eiffel tower about 2.30 a. m. The alarm was immediately sounded and riflemen stationed on the tops of high buildings began blazing away, but all missed.

TOURS CROWDED WITH REFUGEES IN MAD FLIGHT TO THE COAST

TOURS, France, Sept. 3.—Refugees from Paris are pouring into Tours today, swamping the city. Among them are rich and poor. The city is unable to care for them. Even the richest are unable to secure rooms at the hotels. Some are compelled to sleep in their automobiles.

The Hotel Landers and shopkeepers are boosting their prices steadily. Cots in the hotels cost $10.

The highway between Paris and Bordeaux is jammed with vehicles of all descriptions. It is an endless procession that is passing to the coast.

Officials of Tours estimate that since the flight from Paris began 125,000 persons have arrived here or passed through to Bordeaux. The inhabitants here are calm and display no emotion over the reports of French reverses.

$10,000,000 LOST DURING THE WAR EXCITEMENT AT MONTE CARLO

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—The Hellig Olov, Verona and Carpathia brought 1,766 Americans back from Europe. The former brought the first Americans direct from Russia and the other steamers came from Italian ports.

On the Verona, from Naples came Mr. and Mrs. Von Amstel, Canadians, who, for the last few years, have made their home in Monte Carlo. The day after Germany declared war, Mr. Van Amstel, employed by a German medicine company, was discharged and ordered to leave Monte Carlo at once.

"Patrons of the Casino at Monte Carlo lost nearly $10,000,000 by the sudden declaration of war," he said.

"The news reached the proprietors of the Casino by midnight when the tables were covered with gold.

"The lights were extinguished. The gamblers lost their nerve and became panic stricken and the croupiers raked in all the money that had been put up as bets. Some bettors had fortunes at stake. It was reported that two committed suicide as the result of their losses."

Tourists who left Boston on June 27 under the leadership of Professor Fraser of the University of Michigan followed their itinerary without trouble and hardly knew war had been declared.

PERSONALITIES IN THE GREAT WAR

C. DeWIARTS, head of a Belgian mission coming to the United States to protest against "atrocities," says: "It is untrue that sniping led the Germans to destroy Louvain. There was no provocation."

THE DUKE OF BRUNSWICK, a son-in-law of the Kaiser, gave a big banquet in the Palace of Laeken in Brussels last week, it is reported.

GEORGE BAKHMETEFF, Russian Ambassador to this country, has issued a denial of Ambassador Bernstorff's charge that the Poles are in revolt against the Czar.

GEORGES TEPPEN, an eighteen-year-old Boy Scout of Liege, has been decorated by King Albert of Belgium for his work during the war. He has captured eleven spies, killed one uhlan and captured another.

MAJOR VICTOR REGINALD BROOKE, military secretary of the Viceroy of India, is among those killed in the fighting at Mons.

ENSIGN G. B. JUNKIN, government censor at the Sayville wireless station, says long messages, in English, come every morning from Berlin, and that these are the dispatches as given to the papers by the German Ambassador. This statement was in response to a charge that the messages were "faked" by the Germans in this country.

PRESIDENT HIBBEN of Princeton is in London unable to get passage for this country, and fears he may not be able to return in time for the opening of college.

CHARLES H. SHERRILL of New York, former minister of Argentina, traveling with his wife, mother and son, was arrested as a spy, but later released.

PRESIDENT WILSON, it is reported, will not meet the Belgian commission coming to narrate German "atrocities." Secretary Bryan may meet the men.

KING ALBERT of Belgium is reported to have had a narrow escape from death when a shell exploded and burst ten yards from his motor car, demolishing the car.

GABRIAL MANOTAUX says the investment of Paris is impossible.

AVIATOR ADJUTANT DIDIER, with Observer Sergeant Martini of the French air fleet, dropped into German territory by the break-down of their aeroplane, safely returned over sixty miles to the French lines, avoiding capture, and with valuable information.

THE EARL OF GRANARD, whose wife was Miss Beatrice Mills, daughter of Ogden Mills of New York, has been appointed in command of the Fifth Battalion of the Royal Irish Regiment.

EARL KITCHENER of Khartoum has given his drill officers these instructions: "Never mind drill—teach the volunteers to shoot."

BELGIAN PRIVATE NAMED ROSSEAU, lying wounded, saw a German general near. Cautiously he lifted his rifle, fired, saw the officer fall, took the German's helmet and cloak and escaped to his own lines. The German general was Prince von Buelow.

AMBASSADOR HERRICK in Paris has sent a report on the Paris bomb dropping.

Sidelights on the War

LONDON, Sept. 3.—Claude Grahame-White has been appointed a temporary flight commander in the British navy. The Earl of Granard has been appointed in command of the first battalion of the Royal Irish regiment. His wife was formerly Beatrice Mills, daughter of Ogden Mills of New York.

"PETROGRAD" POPULAR.

PETROGRAD (St. Petersburg), via London, Sept. 3.—The name of St. Petersburg does not appear in any Russian newspaper today. Thus has the imperial edict changing the name of the capital to Petrograd, on account of the German form of the name under which the city has been known since its foundation, been observed.

REWARDED BY CZAR.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 3.—The valor of General Rennenkampf in the invasion of East Prussia was rewarded when Czar Nicholas conferred upon him the Order of St. Vladimir. Twenty crosses of merit of the Order of St. George have been bestowed upon members of an infantry company which, under a heavy fire, rescued a disabled battery of artillery.

JUDGE GARY QUITS PARIS.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the executive committee of the Steel Trust, was the last man to leave Paris in his own auto. Now the military commander of Paris has barred such action. Judge Gary hurried to Havre and will leave Saturday on La France for New York.

KILL 100 CHILDREN.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg says that during the recent bombardment of Belgrade the Austrians destroyed a maternal home which was flying the Red Cross flag and that 100 children were killed.

MRS. STORROW TO LEAD WAR PROTEST BY WOMEN'S CLUBS

Mrs. James J. Storrow, president of the Boston Women's City Club, which has started novel movement against war and in aid of Red Cross.

Mrs. James J. Storrow, president of the Boston Women's City Club, with a number of representative women of Boston, have decided to issue a disarmament stamp, to be placed on letters and packages.

These stamps will be one of the means which the women of Boston will adopt to record their protest against militarism and to educate the people into thinking more about international peace.

The stamps will be sold in quantities at 25 cents a hundred and will be sent to women's clubs throughout New England. The proceeds of the sales will be given to the Red Cross for use in the war.

The stamp is now being printed.

ZEPPELIN DAMAGES RED CROSS HOSPITALS

ANTWERP, Sept. 3.—There was another attempt at murder from the skies here early today by a Zeppelin, which, it is believed, came either from Cologne or Dusseldorf, and twelve persons, four of whom were women, were wounded.

A dozen houses which had been converted into hospitals and were flying the Red Cross flag were badly damaged. The Zeppelin, as revealed by the searchlights, flew over the outer fortifications and threw bombs in all. Then, under a brisk fire from the Belgium batteries, disappeared in the direction of Mechlin.

It is reported that the envelope of the Zeppelin was pierced by a Belgian bullet, but this is not confirmed. An examination of the bombs thrown show they have a thin double covering, the two covers being joined together by mushroom shaped rivets which act as bullets and cause horrible injuries as the covers are torn into fragments by the explosion.

King Albert and high Belgian officials conducted the United States consul to portions of the city attacked and showed him the damage done to the Red Cross building.

The following is the officials' statement concerning the manoeuvres of the Zeppelin airship over Antwerp: "A Zeppelin airship was reported near the forts to the south of the city and also near the river. It passed over almost toward Termonde and Ghent and then returned toward Antwerp and tried to fly over the city, but for a time a heavy artillery fire kept it outside the outer fortifications.

"Five or six bombs were dropped from it. Later seven bombs were dropped in the Parc de Risgnol close to some houses which have been converted into hospitals and which were flying the Red Cross flag. These houses were damaged and ten or twelve persons slightly wounded. After the bomb-dropping exploits the Zeppelin rose and disappeared in the direction of Mechlin.

"An examination of the bombs thrown showed that they are similar to those used by the automobile bandits in France."

BOSTON SLAVS TO DISCUSS WAR AT MEETING SUNDAY

Following the example of the German-Americans of Boston in holding a mass meeting to protest against the attitude of a portion of the press, the Slavs of Boston will hold a similar gathering at Faneuil Hall Sunday afternoon. A set of resolutions calling on the Czar to guarantee to the British and French governments that the recent manifesto agreeing to Polish autonomy will be lived up to strictly if the Polish people take up arms against Germany will probably be adopted.

Among the speakers will be Dr. Smykowski of Bridgeport, Ct., the Rev. Alexander Eyski of Hyde Park, the Rev. Misicki of Brockton, John Federkiewicz, a Cambridge school teacher; Joseph Govar, a Bohemian orator of South Boston, and Editor Jasienski.

BERNSTORFF HAS HEARD NOTHING OF WAR BY TURKEY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, before going to the State Department and the White House today, declared that he had no word of any declaration of war by Turkey against Russia nor of any protest on the part of his government against Japanese violation of the neutrality of China.

"My government has not communicated any word to me upon these matters," he said. "I know nothing of them. The matter of the purchase of ships from German private companies by the United States government is one with which I have nothing to do, as it is a private transaction. I shall not discuss it with the President because it is not an official matter.

"I understand that representations have been made through the British and French embassies on this subject, but I am not making any."

Filene's Automatic Bargain BASEMENT

Take care of the pence and the pounds will take care of themselves—Benjamin Franklin

WE WISH you to read this through the spectacles of the unacquainted—as though you had never heard of or seen the Filene Automatic Bargain Basement. If you are one of the many who "walk through" almost every day you may discover added reasons for doing so; if you are not, you may discover reasons for joining the "walk through" brigade.

ONLY a few years ago the woman or man bent upon taking care of the pence was compelled to "cavil on the ninth part of a hair." The victory was to the better caviler. Here in the Automatic Bargain Basement the bartering is done behind the scenes. Trained experts in the widest and best markets attend to all that for you. Merchandise comes to these Basement shops priced as you would have it priced because purchased as you would have wished to purchase it.

Over all this sways the magic wand of cash. None of the burdens of credit are borne, either in buying or selling. The full, quick one-hundred per centum of every dollar is realized for us and for you.

DOUBLY the Automatic Bargain Basement is a community of interest. In the first place it could not exist without having won and held the good will of the market. These men have learned that here is a square deal so long as they deal squarely. They have learned that we do not purchase simply because merchandise is cheap; it must be exceptionally worthy as well as cheap—so worthy that our warranty may attach to it. All this being understood it is natural that we are thought of first when exceptional combinations of value and price show their heads above the waters of trade.

In the second place there exists a community of interest between the Automatic Bargain Basement and the public, the latter making our methods possible by hearty co-operation. This is very apparent in the cheerful acceptance of our rule that merchandise shall not be returned after forty-eight hours and in the readiness with which our friends forego the usual service of free delivery.

PROGRESS of the Automatic Bargain Basement has been most gratifying. In the sixty-eight months of its career every month but one has shown a substantial increase in business, and that month dates away back to old-store days. During the last twelve months, however, the increase has been most pronounced.

For all of this there is one big WHY. The public realizes that Basement prices are automatically reduced just as we say they are:

25% after 12 selling days
50% after 18 selling days
75% after 24 selling days
Given away after 30 selling days

—And this proves that first prices must be right if we are to avoid losses.

WHILE next week, second birthday week of the new Filene store, is not the real birthday week of the Basement, the latter has prepared to observe the occasion by presenting economic opportunities unusual even below stairs. These offerings will not be limited to women and children but will meet the seasonable apparel needs of men and boys as well.

Impossible to catalogue them. The slogan "HUNDREDS OF OTHER BARGAIN LOTS" appearing in our basement advertisements means just that—and next week it will have especial significance.

"Walk through" and see for yourself!

THIS IS ONE of a series of advertisements relative to the second anniversary of the new store's opening and leading up to our SECOND BIRTHDAY SALE, on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 8 and 9.

EVERY PART OF THE STORE will be represented with seasonable economies, resulting from months of planning. The whole family may participate, assured of pleasure and profit.

The anniversary street windows will contain no merchandise, but in a way typically Filene will point to what is going forward. Indoors the Streets of Filene will speak an economic word of Autumn styles.

SUTRO SCORES TALES OF GERMAN ATROCITIES

DEFENDS LOUVAIN BURNING

By THEODOR SUTRO,
Editor of the New York German Journal.

According to the figures of the latest United States census, there are 18,515,858 foreign-born people in this country, among whom the Germans lead with 2,501,181. Ten per cent. of these live in New York.

Ask any one of these two and a half million Germans, and their sons and their daughters, their cousins, nephews and nieces, born in the United States, whether they believe the tales of the "atrocities" said to have been committed by German soldiers now in the field, as related by English, French and Russian so-called "war correspondents."

You might just as well ask the 7,502,000 Russians living in this country, of whom about 95 per cent. are Russian Jews, whether they believe stories which inform the American public that the Russian Czar is the high protector and benefactor of the Jewish race.

Americans had better wait until the German side is heard from before they pass judgment on these alleged German "atrocities."

The other day a report was cabled telling us that the Germans had destroyed Louvain, an ancient city of Belgium. The London newspapers denounced this alleged "crime against civilization," and a great many American journals joined in the cry, without waiting to hear what the Germans had to say in answer to such a charge.

We have the German version now, as cabled by wireless. It is necessarily brief. It is that the major part of the German troops occupying Louvain had to leave in order to fight the Belgians approaching from some other town. Only a battalion of the German reserves were left at Louvain. The inhabitants of Louvain, believing that the Germans were retreating, thought it a good opportunity to wipe out the small German contingent still in their town, and so they armed themselves and commenced shooting at the soldiers.

Of course, the Germans defended themselves as best they could, and being reinforced, soon overpowered their civilian enemies and punished them severely in accordance with the usage of warfare. Houses in which these civilians were found were burned down, civilians caught with arms in their hands were shot and the population was driven out.

Any army at war, whether English, French, Russian or American, would have done the same thing under like circumstances. This is not only permitted by international rules of warfare, but is imperative as a matter of protection.

I am not here discussing the ethical side of warfare, because, as such, it has no ethical side. But when war is on and cannot be stopped it is at least better to mitigate its horrors by holding both soldier and civilian to generally accepted usages.

Prize fights are also brutal and demoralizing, but even they must be conducted according to the Queensberry or other well-known rules.

Siege of Paris Greatest Test of Modern Forts

The map of Europe is dotted with fortresses of a strength that even twenty years ago would have seemed impossible of conquest. As at sea armor and armament have run a race and neck race, so on land artillery has forced the army engineers to devise new and stronger defenses.

To the average man, the word "fort" or "fortress" conjures up either a picture of one of the masonry walled islands down Boston Harbor, or if he reads his Fenimore Cooper, of a log-walled block-house, slit into loopholes here and there.

But even the great Harbor forts are entirely different from the fortifications which guard Paris—the great fortresses which the German army must encompass or reduce before it can gain a victory. In northern France are Havre, Reims, Epernay, Verdun, Toul, Epinal, Belfort and other cities that are really tremendous fortresses. Liege was a fortress, and Namur, and Paris is the greatest fortress of them all.

The siege of Port Arthur by the Japanese taught modern military experts many things about fortifications. And the results are to be seen in northern France today.

DUAL DEFENSIVE SYSTEM.

Up to the time of the siege of Sebastopol, cities were usually fortified by a single wall of defense, with forts dotted here and there. The development of modern artillery required that the defenses be at a greater distance from the city. The result was the development of a dual system of defense. The inner defense was called the "enceinte" and was a low wall or bulwark designed to stop the rush of foraging troops; while the outer line of defense was called the "periphery" and did the real work. Now, however, the inner line is being abandoned; and at Paris it is of small importance.

The outer circle of defense is made up of forts, housing artillery, and from one to four miles apart. These forts form a complete circle around the city. Each of these forts is in turn defended by infantry redoubts; and these redoubts, united by trenches, form an unbroken line about the city.

An infantry redoubt usually garrisoned by 200 to 400 men. This redoubt is a complicated structure. The attacking enemy first must climb a gradual slope which is netted by wire entanglements, in criss-crossed, shoulder high hedges, and is sown with fallen trees. Usually also, mines are planted in this slope, and these mines are exploded from the redoubt at will. This slope is swept by the rifle fire of the garrison. And at the top of this slope is a line of men, armed with rifles and machine guns.

DEFENDERS COMMAND SLOPE.

Supposing the enemy drives back the first line of men, the defenders withdraw up another slope, to underground trenches, and the enemy, pursuing, is confronted by one or more iron fences which are designed to be unclimbable. Behind these fences are more pretentious wire entanglements, hedges and fallen trees. At the top of this second slope is another line of men, the main line of defense, well sheltered.

Behind this second line lies the heart of the redoubt, bomb proof shelters from which the defenders command the whole slope with rifle and machine guns.

In a well constructed redoubt, the attackers would have to force or pick their way through two or four hundred yards of entanglements, and storm at least two entrenched lines before they could carry the redoubt.

It is military theory that an adequate and sustained force of defenders, in a properly constructed redoubt cannot be dislodged till their works are broken up with artillery.

These redoubts, to the number of a dozen or more, would be arranged to advantage around every fort. The forts house the heavy artillery. A typical fort presents a semi-circular front to the enemy, with wings converging so that from both wings a fire may be concentrated on the centre of any advancing force. The forts are armed with artillery of varying character, the light guns farthest forward; and the heavy guns housed at the top of the fort and in the centre.

PROTECTED BY MINES.

And each fort is defended by long lines of trenches, entanglements, woods, mined fields, iron fences and similar obstructions.

The defenders of these forts are never directly exposed to the enemies' fire. The infantrymen move in covered passages of blind trenches, and fire through loopholes, with their heads and bodies perfectly protected by steel, iron, concrete and earth. At Port Arthur, the outer entanglements were of barbed wires, and next came high, unclimbable iron fences, carrying a heavy and deadly electric current. Mines are laid in all natural fields—mines that may be fired by electricity or that explode under the feet of a marching force.

In times of peace, hedges of prickly pear, and other tenacious shrubs are cultivated to obstruct any attack; and trees are planted in such positions that when an attack is feared they may be felled in such a way as to present a tangled mass of branches to the enemy and thereby impede his progress.

Tomorrow's article will be on "What Modern Artillery Is, and What It Can Do."

35,000 CANADIANS ALREADY ENLISTED

OTTAWA, Sept. 3.—The war spirit grows in Canada, the militia officials are overwhelmed by men eager to go to the front. The first call was for 25,000 volunteers from whom it was proposed to pick 21,000 to cross the Atlantic.

"There are now 35,000 men in camp at Valcartier, and more coming," Samuel Hughes, the minister of militia, said today. "There are at least 6,000 men in camp who have never been ordered there. How did they get there?" Well, I asked that question myself of the transport officer, and was told they had just come.

"I have not encouraged men to go to the front, but I do not propose to discourage them. They will go to the front eventually.

"I have just received another offer of a regiment, 1,000 strong, from the United States. This offer comes from a leading man in a Southern State who writes that if allowed to do so he will bring 1,000 men from the descendants of the best Scottish stock in the South."

The Canadian Government, it was learned today, is considering the advisability of cancelling German patents and copyrights held in Canada. The question is being discussed with the British Board of Trade. The patents held in Canada cover chiefly chemical preparations and electrical apparatus.

EDNA GOODRICH TELLS OF ESCAPING SHOOTING

LONDON, Sept. 3.—Edna Goodrich, a former wife of Nat Goodwin, arrived in London today with the most thrilling story of any American refugee yet told. Only a miracle, she says, prevented not only herself, but her mother, grandmother, aunt and maid being shot by troops.

They were roughly handled by an infuriated mob of Frenchmen and women in the little town of Harfleur, three miles from Havre, after they had run down two French soldiers and a boy-scout. The boy had smashed into two cannon in an unmanageable automobile travelling sixty miles an hour.

"It is all so horrible," said Miss Goodrich, in an exclusive interview with an AMERICAN correspondent today. "Into those twelve hours at Harfleur were crowded more exciting incidents than I have experienced in all the rest of my life put together, including the time when I was Mrs. Nat Goodwin.

"I left London a month ago with my mother, grandmother, aunt and maid and spent a short time in Paris, where I lost all my furs, the most valuable of my jewels and most of my wardrobe. There we went to Ostend for a rest. It was not until the British troops arrived there that the hotels began to be transformed into hospitals. Then we decided to get away. We came to Paris and I gathered my belongings from a storehouse.

"An American friend, Daniel Frederick Daly of Worcester, Mass., urged me to leave immediately. We went to the station only to find that no trains were running and none was likely to run. In two hours we had started for Havre. Except for holding up at every crossroads, where our passports were examined, we had no difficulty until the night came, when we knew we must stop, no matter where, or run the risk of being shot.

TOOK A CHANCE.

"At dusk we found ourselves about an hour away from Havre. We decided to take a chance and keep going. We passed a long column of English artillery.

"The first car with the luggage and the maids passed on into Havre by perhaps a hundred yards. As we swung around a corner near the village we found the road ahead of us blocked down a steep hill. The other car was already at the bottom surrounded by soldiers.

"Just as we got over the top of an inclined plane our chauffeur uttered a frightful exclamation and the next thing we knew the car was rushing down hill at an enormous rate, gathering speed at every foot. Mr. Daly jumped out on to the running board and tried to help the chauffeur work the emergency brake.

"The crowd at the foot of the hill was lined solidly across the road. We could see the soldiers holding up their arms waving red flags, beyond the crowd four big guns were pointed up the hill at us.

"Into the crowd we fairly flew. It is a wonder to me we didn't kill twenty of them. The next instant there was a frightful crash as we struck one of the guns a glancing blow. The force of the impact threw the car against a stone wall.

"In the meantime a fusillade of rifle shots was being fired at us. The first ones fluttered the tires and two bullets riddled the back of the limousine. To top it off the citizens and the soldiers then charged us with bayonets.

STOOD AGAINST WALL.

"Mr. Daly was thrown thirty feet when the car struck the gun. Fortunately, he was not seen and thus the crowd found the chauffeur the only man amongst us. He was obviously a Frenchman. This discovery had its effect upon the soldiers but none at all on the civilians, who shrieked their intention to kill us.

"They fought the soldiers in their efforts to do so. Two of them got into the car and dragged my mother and grandmother out and jammed them against the wall.

"The soldiers took my aunt, the chauffeur and me and lined us alongside my mother and grandmother at the very spot, we were told later, where five German spies had been shot. A moment later I discovered the reason for the awful hostility of the crowd. A peasant woman screaming at the top of her voice came running towards us carrying in her arms a little boy. Our maid's car had run over and killed it.

"It took five soldiers to keep her from us. The soldiers were grim enough. Two of their number also had been run over by the car and their legs broken.

"It looked certain we all would be shot but suddenly Mr. Daly pushed through the crowd with a young British officer. He showed that the brake of the first car were broken. We were locked up all night but Mr. Daly arranged matters with the poor mother.

"The English officer and an English magistrate all helped us and we were discharged."

RAPIDITY OF THE GERMAN ADVANCE ON PARIS AMAZING

LONDON, Sept. 3.—A brief announcement by the government press bureau early today was the only official word London had up to noon as to the progress of fighting in northeastern France. However, a special telegram to the Star, from Germany, reported that the Germans were near to the outer fortifications of Paris. This telegram follows:

"A battle opened on Tuesday. The British and French armies are intact. The rapidity of the German advance is amazing. They are now near the outer fortifications of Paris.

"However, the allies are not alarmed; they are confident of eventual success. The German force is massed in close formation, while the lines of the allies that oppose them are stretched out northeast and northwest.

VON TIRPITZ LEADS PRISONERS IN VAIN ATTEMPT FOR FREEDOM

LONDON, Sept. 3.—Lieutenant Von Tirpitz, son of the German High Admiral, who was captured in the recent naval battle of Heligoland, led a mutiny at Redford Barracks, near Edinburgh, early today in an attempt to escape. With about twenty of his fellow German captives he rushed the guard and after a sharp fight the mutiny was quelled.

The Lieutenant got through the guards, but was caught while climbing the barricade along the railway. He was taken under strong guard to Edinburgh Castle.

PARIS NOW FULLY PREPARED FOR A LENGTHY SIEGE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Everything in Paris is ready for a long siege, although it is not at all sure that a siege will take place, according to advices received at the French embassy today.

Every precaution has been taken by the government to avoid the hindering of military operations, and since the ocation of the seat of government in a besieged city always is a hindrance the move to Bordeaux

French Army Pushes Ahead in Lorraine

PARIS, Sept. 3.—The latest communique issued by the ministry of war says:

On our left wing during the first of September a German cavalry force in their march toward the Forest of Compiegne had an engagement with English troops, who took ten cannon. Another German cavalry force has pushed as fare as the Soissons-Anizy-Le Chatean line.

In the Rethel and Meuse district the enemy has shown no activity.

In Lorraine we have continued to progress along the right bank of the Sanon.

In the south the situation is unchanged. In upper Alsace the Germans appear to have left before Belfort only a curtain of troops.

In the north there is no sign of the enemy at Lille, Arras, Doul, Bathoue and Lens.

It is announced from Belgium that fractions belonging to several German army corps are moving east, returning into Germany.

'FRANCE'S FATE TO BE DECIDED IN 48 HOURS'

By CAPT. EWALD HECKER.
Of the Thirteenth Royal Dragoons, German army who is writing analyses of military movements from the German point of view for the American.

Among all the different important reports from the different theatres of war in France none today announces positive success.

In France the next forty-eight hours must prove decisive, and we have to delay the further discussion of the situation over there till the crisis, which is now on, has passed.

Concerning the situation in the East, it is a rather difficult task to form an unbiased opinion, the statements of the belligerent powers being so utterly contradictory.

There is no doubt that the Russians have occupied a part of the province of East Prussia, and it might be possible that they have even already advanced as far as the outlines of the forts of the powerful stronghold of Koenigsberg.

LITTLE RESISTANCE

But this, of course, was not a very difficult thing for them to perform, as according to the long-fixed German plan of defense, this part of the country was only to be protected by the troops at the frontier before the main bodies of their troops started to advance.

What has happened in these regions seems to be the following:

MET THEIR FATE.

At the same time they most probably have tried with another army, consisting of about four army corps, to fall from the south into the rear of the retiring Germans by an advance in the direction of Ortelsburg and Tannenberg.

Underestimating the strength of the Germans in their second line of defense, and not placing in accord this flank movement with the retarded advance of the front attack group, the northeast, they have met their fate, running right into a trap prepared for them and being decidedly beaten and captured, isolated as they were in these untenable districts.

The Russian General Staff, disposing of overwhelming quantities of troops from the widely spread provinces of the enormous empire, would not have started the invasion of Germany with so insufficient a force if he had been in the condition of bringing up in time a stronger body just by the most important wing of his strategical advance.

This striking instance leads to the conclusion that the Russians have started to invade Germany before their had finished the concentration of their armies.

BOSTON AND OTHER NEW ENGLANDERS ON LINER CARPATHIA

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—The Carpathia, renowned as the rescue ship of the Titanic survivors, has reached New York with many refugees from Europe.

The vessel was painted to disguise her as a Scandinavian liner.

TITLES GO WITH WAR; UNIFORMS FOR THE ASKING

FUR SALE—Cheap, extra special lot of ladies' sealskin jackets, having had their jobs at bankrupt auction in the Russian army; also a few Persian lamb coats, in good condition. Apply to Emperor of Austria, Emperor of Germany, King of Montenegro, King of Italy, King of Wurtemburg, Grand Duke of Hesse, Grand Duke of Mecklenburg, Grand Duke of Oldenburg, Grand Duke of Saxe-Weimar, et al.

Military circles in Russia, says a St. Petersburg dispatch, are much impressed by an order dismissing the German and Austrian sovereigns and princes from honorary colonelships in Russian regiments and depriving them of Russian decorations. This has never been done in any war.

Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany is honorary colonel of a Prussian Guard Regiment, of the Eighty-fifth Regiment of Infantry and of the First Regiment of Hussars.

Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria is honorary colonel of the Thirty-fifth Regiment of Russian Dragoons and of the Kexholm Regiment of the Dantzic.

King William II. of Wurtemburg is honorary colonel of the Tenth Russian Dragoons, the Grand Duke of Hesse of the Sixteenth Regiment of Hussars, the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg of the Eighth Grenadier Regiment, the Grand Duke of Oldenburg of the Sixty-seventh Infantry Regiment, and the Grand Duke of Saxe-Weimer of a Hussar Regiment.

And every one of these princes has uniform or two of every regiment of which he is honorary colonel, to wear when he visits a fellow sovereign and in watching a regiment of which he is honorary colonel parading in his honor.

And as for decorations, the German princes must have enough gold and jeweled Russian stars and crosses and sunbursts between them to fill a good sized trunk.

And just think how many more uniforms will be prey for moths if the two Kaisers retaliate and the lopping off of honorary colonel's heads becomes general.

Czar Nicholas is honorary colonel of a Prussian Grenadier Guards Regiment and a Prussian Hussar Regiment, of the Second Regiment of Hessian Dragoons and of the First Regiment of Bavarian Cavalry.

Kaiser Wilhelm is honorary colonel of the First Regiment, British Royal Dragoons.

Emperor Francis Joseph is honorary colonel of the British First Regiment of King's Dragoon Guards.

King George V. is honorary colonel of the Prussian Cuirassier Regiment, the First Regiment of Prussian Dragoons, and the Twelfth Austrian Regiment.

King Albert of Belgium is honorary colonel of the Second Regiment, Prussian Dragoons, and the Twenty-seventh Austrian Regiment.

And the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha is honorary colonel of the British Seaforth Highlanders.

Aren't the French lucky? None of them are honorary colonels.

FANNIE WARD JUST ESCAPED IRONS AS SPY

Fannie Ward, who will be seen here as the star in "Madam President" next week, came very nearly being unpleasantly mixed up in the present European war trouble, and but for her charming personality and the gallantry of one of the officers on the Olympic she might have spent part of her journey to this country in the steamship lockup, charged with being an international spy.

The liner sailed just before the war trouble began and was one of the last to leave England. When the vessel had been several days at sea the captain gave orders that no lights were to be displayed during the night, the saloons were dark and curtains were hung over the cabin portholes. Miss Ward and some friends were playing bridge in the saloon when the order came for lights out. Obtaining a flashlight from her cabin and a book she was finishing she went out on deck and tried to pass the time in reading. The lamp did not work very well and every few minutes she was obliged to flash it on anew to read the book. Quite unconscious that she was causing any excitement, she was startled when suddenly one of the officers appeared before her and demanded to know to whom she was signaling.

"At first I thought he was joking," said Miss Ward, but when I flashed the light in his face and saw how serious he looked I was frightened. 'It looked very much as if you were signaling to some one,' said the officer in a milder tone, 'and whether you were or not I shall have to ask you to stop flashing that light at once.'

A very much subdued little actress went to her cabin feeling that she was lucky in not having been put in irons.

Tonely Sisters Star in the Final of City Swimming Meets

Little Rose Tonely, eight years old, of South Boston, and her two sisters, Madeline and Elisabeth, are being congratulated on all sides today for their grand showing yesterday in the city swimming finals.

The Tonely sisters stood out prominently in nearly every event. Madeline won the fifty-yard junior swim, was first in the fancy diving, and in the relay races the three sisters won with a good margin, and it was through them that the L street junior relay team won that event.

Rose, the youngest, being only eight years old, swam the second relay and opened quite a space between the nearest girl, and her sisters kept up the lead and finished far in the lead.

In the dive for the junior girls there was a disagreement between the Judges, and Madeline Tonely and Margaret McKenna had to dive over again, the first named winning.

The Tonely girls were also among the prize winners in the recent swimming carnival given by the Boston AMERICAN.

MOTOR NEWS.

By J. C. KERRISON.

Monday being the last holiday in what might be termed the riding season, the motorists are making preparations for two and a half-day tours. The White Mountains, always a familiar touring ground, will undoubtedly see a great influx of motorists on these days, while the seashore resorts along the North and South Shores and the Maine coast will not be overlooked. The Cape has of late years come into greater popularity with those who would tour for a few days, and along its shores are found many interesting and enjoyable stopping places.

The country, while always popular with many, does not at this time seem to hold great attractions, as the bulk of the tourists are planning for trips to the mountain and seashore resorts. Bretton Woods, in the heart of the White Mountains, with its Mt. Washington and Mt. Pleasant hotels, will unquestionably prove a mecca of the tourists. It is on a course which is familiar to the bulk of tourists, abounds with good roads and natural scenery, and if the trip be made one way and the return another, one is able to secure a varied class of scenery.

It is expected that within the next few days the Dodge Brothers will open up their surprise box and give to the motoring trade and the public in general the name of the individual or firm which will handle the Dodge product in this city. It is said that a surprise is in store for some of the "knowing ones."

GIRL ADMITS POSTAL THEFT

Miss Jennie L. Minard, an attractive blonde, twenty-two year old, of No. 579 Columbia road, Dorchester, was arrested today by Postoffice Inspectors Hall and Jennings, charged with the embezzlement of money and letters while working as a substitute clerk in small branch postoffices.

When arrested a test letter containing a marked $5 was found in her pocket. She confessed to having taken also $51 from three letters. For this she made restitution.

FANNIE WARD, who is to star in Boston in "Madam President," and whose innocent use of a flashlight on the Olympic almost resulted in her being put in irons as a spy.

GAY THRONG ON WAY TO 'HAPPY TWENTY' DANCE

According to the very latest bulletins from the front, that large and smiling stream of people which you will see moving toward Revere Beach this evening will be made up of people bound for the annual Summer dance of the "Happy Twenty" at Crescent Garden.

Some of the most expert tango dancers who ever wore out a plug in a shoe have been waiting impatiently for this evening to compete in the prize dances that will be a feature of the "Happy Twenty" festivity.

There will be prizes for the best tangolists, one-steppers, hesitationists and maxixers.

The Judges will be three of the Red Sox boys, "Smoky Joe" Wood, Tris Speaker and Harold Janvrin. The other Red Soxers will be present, maybe to protect the Judges.

The general dancing will begin at 8 o'clock and will continue until 1 o'clock tomorrow morning. It will be cool, if anywhere, at Crescent Garden, because it is an open-face dance hall through which the Atlantic Ocean breezes blow in large quantities.

Confidentially—and don't repeat this to "Happy" of the "Happy Twenty" says that it costs just two bits to get in.

Edith Frances Noera Weds New York Man

In the flower-decked state suite of the Copley-Plaza Miss Edith Frances Noera, Wellesley, '14, of Auburndale, became the bride of Dr. Rayol Hatch of New York, a graduate of Dartmouth College and the Harvard Medical School. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Benjamin Marshall, former chaplain of Dartmouth College.

Find Menace to Annex Water Curtain

Every central fire plug on the new City Hall Annex water-curtain today was found aligned in a position that made possible its breakage by the swing of the window it faced, and the crippling of the entire system. Richard A. Lynch, superintendent of public buildings, immediately arranged to remedy the defect by having wood-and-rubber fenders placed beside each plug.

WALSH PRAISED BY INMATES OF STATE PRISON

Governor Walsh is paid a high tribute by the inmates of the Charlestown State prison in the current number of The Mentor, the prison paper. Much space is given to a story of the Governor's visit to the prison and of the good effect it had upon the men.

An editorial says of the Governor and his visit:

"Governor Walsh reaches the hearts of the men here and creates in them fresh desires for improvement and success. He has the knack of inspiring men with enthusiasm, a fact not difficult to understand. The thoughts communicated by him to the prisoners are always judicious. He never fails to include wholesome advice in his message, and it is seen beyond the shadow of a doubt that he has genuine interest in the welfare of the men and a strong desire to have them improve and become creditable citizens.

"The men here are quick to perceive these things, and the minds of practically all become more inclined to unite with authority that exhibits such beneficent spirit. Governor Walsh has done well amid the multifarious activities of his office to find time to encourage, and by personal example to bring out what is best in the men here.

"It shows a fidelity to the spirit as well as the letter of his office which cannot be too highly praised.

"The Governor's attitude toward prisoners has, beside a favorable effect on them, a reflex effect on society, who is most seriously concerned regarding the future of its wards. His excellency is strongly in favor of returning them to their place in the community with heads erect, and in good physical condition, so that they may carry out their determination to overcome obstacles and gain an honest living.

"Men used to talk once of giving the devil his due, but Governor Walsh takes issue with this bit of folly and proclaims that, if society performs its duty, the devil's pickings will be few and far between. He is doing his share, and the prisoners have responded, as normal men ever will respond to kindness shown them.

"The citizens of the Commonwealth should back the Governor up in his stand as they will ultimately benefit by his efforts in behalf of the men in this institution."

The Braves Came Through

By MORTON BIRGE.

There are thrills, indeed, in the news we read of the war in the foreign lands,
Of the thousands slain, of the loss and gain and the movements of hostile bands;
But I have a hunch there's a greater punch—in talking of what men do—
In the tale that's new and, what's more, it's true—of the way that the Braves came through.

They have turned the trick and we think they'll stick, but whether they stay or fall,
They have won a name for a team that's game, that started the least of all,
That was 'way down deep in the baseball heap, but all of a sudden came to
With a great big smash and a loud, rude crash—that's the way that the Braves came through.

There is none knows yet where the flag will set at the end of the pennant race,
But the Braves shine high in the baseball sky for the way that they took first place,
And, so, when they tell how this war is—well, what a famous general said—
Just note that the same was raised in the game when the Braves came through and led.

To Run Everett Schools Half Time

With room for less than 6,000 children the Everett public schools, which open Wednesday, will have to care for 8,000 pupils. Three new buildings are in process of construction and will be ready about February 1. Until that time the first grades of the city, twelve in number, will be run on half time. In the Mount Washington district it may be necessary to run the entire school double time until the new George G. Hamilton building is completed.

TO COVER CITY WITH POSTERS AGAINST WAR

Anti-war posters will soon be put in Boston. Eight of them are being printed and will be ready for distribution in about a week.

The first poster will contain a picture of a Zeppelin dirigible throwing a bomb upon a city at night.

Underneath are these words:

"Sherman Called War Hell. What Would You Call This?"

More than 1,000 of these posters will be distributed in various sections of Boston and adjoining cities, to remind the public of the great evils of war.

Mrs. Elizabeth H. Tilton is the designer of the posters and will have them placed at all the Boston churches in a month's time.

TO SAVE EYES
Is the Object of This Free Prescription — Try It if Your Eyes Give You Trouble.

Thousands of people suffer from eye troubles because they do not know what to do. They know some good home remedy for every other minor ailment, but none for their eye troubles. They neglect their eyes, because the trouble is not sufficient to drive them to an eye specialist, who would, anyway, charge them a huge fee. As a last resort they go to an optician or to the five and ten-cent store, and oftentimes get glasses that they do not need, or which, after being used two or three months, do their eyes more injury than good. Here is a simple prescription that every one should use:

5 grain Optona (1 tablet).
2 ounces water.

Use three or four times a day to bathe the eyes. This prescription and the simple Optona treatment have been used successfully by many and quickly overcome inflammation and irritation. Sore, weak, watery eyes, blurred vision, either smoky troubles are greatly benefited and oftentimes cured by its use. Many reports show Black Specks of years have disappeared after a few weeks' use. It is good for the eyes and contains no harmful drugs which would injure the most sensitive eyes of an infant or the aged. Any druggist can fill this prescription promptly. Try it, and time for once what real use comfort is.

Reasons Why
the next time you order "corn flakes" you should specify
Post Toasties

They are perfect flakes—thin as paper—each flake the "sweet meat" of the choicest white corn grown in the Mississippi Valley.

This food comes to you fresh, in sanitary packages, sealed tight, and with an Inside Container to keep contents right.

Post Toasties have a dainty, corn flavour—unusual to common corn flakes—this due to skilful cooking and toasting, which imprisons the oven-fresh goodness and saves it for your breakfast or lunch—

Toasties are good hot or cold; served with cream and sugar—also fresh fruit in season. To get a special richness of flavour in this distinctively American dish, warm in open oven before serving. Heat unseals this dainty flavour for your appetite. A superb food—always appetizing!

No advance in price of Post Toasties

NEW CLEW IN LYNN SLAYING

In an attempt to solve the mystery of the slaying of Jeremiah Dunn, the Lynn man whose body was found in Lambert's pond after a stranger reported to the police it was there, Inspector Thorn of the Lynn police is today in Biddeford, Me., on a clew which the authorities are closely guarding.

Assistant Medical Examiner Shea declares that death undoubtedly resulted from a blow or kick in the abdomen and that Dunn was unconscious when he was thrown in the water.

An effort is being made to locate the unidentified man who disappeared after telling the police where to find Dunn's body. Dunn had been missing since Saturday.

Seven companions of Dunn on the last night he was seen alive have been put through a severe grilling. It is believed information given by one of these men is what sent Inspector Thorn on his hurried and mysterious trip to Biddeford.

Another man who is declared to have been with Dunn on Saturday night cannot be located, but it is declared the police have his name and are today pressing their search for him.

The police believe Dunn was slain as the result of an argument. Lambert's pond, where his body was found, is a shallow salt water pool near the Sea street boulevard in Lynn.

A Practically Perfect Preparation.

YEARS of experience have enabled Mr. Fletcher to make Castoria a practically perfect preparation. These years of labor: the amount of money required to introduce its merits to the public: the investment in its manufacture, including the most modern machinery, mean a vast amount of invested capital. It follows that the greatest care is exercised in the selection of each ingredient, and the greatest attention is paid to every detail of its preparation. The result is the practically perfect preparation in the finished product; Fletcher's Castoria.

Herein lies the guarantee of the absolute safety in the use of Fletcher's Castoria for the baby, and the warning against irresponsible makers of imitations and counterfeits. The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher that is printed in black on the wrapper and red on the bottle is the mother's safeguard.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Extracts from Letters by Grateful Parents to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Mrs. John W. Derrick, of Lexington, S. C., says: "My children cry for Castoria, I could not do without it."

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gaines, of Ripley, Tenn., say: "We enclose our baby's picture hoping it will induce some poor tired mothers to give your Castoria a trial. We have used it since baby was two weeks old."

Mrs. J. G. Parman, of Nashville, Tenn., says: "The perfect health of my baby is due to your Castoria—the first and only medicine he has taken. He is never satisfied with one dose, he always cries for more."

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Johnson, of Stevens Point, Wis., say: "When our baby was two weeks old he cried so much we did everything for him, then got some Castoria and he is now strong and fat. We would not be without it, and are very thankful to you."

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS BEARS the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Our Advice Today—Buy For Cash, and Buy All You Can

Cash here versus credit elsewhere. No man who will stop to think a moment can question the contention that, everything else being equal, the merchant who sells for cash can be content with smaller margins than one who credits. If not, why, may we ask, is so much emphasis in current publicity laid upon the "spot cash" feature of various fortunate purchases? If the public can buy to as good an advantage on a credit basis, how does it happen that the merchant cannot? If either could, surely both could. But, of course, neither can and neither does. When all is said and done, it's the goods and the prices the people want; and we believe our low cash prices undersell in all lines.

1300 REFUGEES ARRIVE TODAY ON THE ARABIC

ere in every instance to blame for ant happened.

NARROW ESCAPES MOB.

Miss E. P. Allan, one of a number Boston school teachers who came ver on the Arabic, was arrested in rankfort, Germany, as a spy and as threatened by a mob.

Mrs. John T. Malloy of Waltham w the great spectacle of the battle f Liege. Her husband was twice ar- sted in Germany as a spy.

Colonele J. H. Cunningham of Bos- n told of being on a steamer in the Baltic which was chased by a erman cruiser and which finally ame to safety in Swedish waters.

Mrs. E. M. Barrows-Goodrich of rockton told of the shooting of 160 ermans as spies at Petrograd.

Judge and Mrs. Irwin and a dozen thers in a party head by Dr. and rs. Joel Metcalfe of Winchester had its of excitement in making a jour- y from Interlaken, Switzerland, London through Paris.

J. B. Detwiler of New York, return- g with his wife and four-year-old ughter Eileen, said he had been ar- sted in Frankfort as a spy, that ten ldiers had shoved him through the reets with their bayonets while a ob hooted at him, and that later e won his freedom by telling a Ger- an trooper who could speak English at Roosevelt was President of the ited States and that the colonel is a close personal friend of the sident.

CHELSEA MAYOR HOME.

Mayor Willard of Chelsea, Mrs. illard, their daughter and Clerk seph Curley of the Chelsea Court, re three weeks in getting home d they sailed from England after ey had bought up passage in three fferent liners.

Former Assistant District Attorney ichael Dwyer, returning with his ughter, Miss Frances, told of get- g out of the war zone only after ng delays.

The Arabic's voyage was practically eventful, though the passengers scussed little else than the war and e possibility of their being met by German cruiser. All portholes were anketed and no lights were allowed be show at any time during the night.

Said Dr. Donoghue:

"I was in Heidelberg at the Cancer Institute when war was declared and the mobilization started. Like all Americans, we were treated very well indeed by the Germans. They did all they could for us, in getting us trains, taking care of our baggage and so on.

"We finally left for the front. At Herbesthal, the last town on the frontier, we were told to get out of the train. It was two miles across the border. The Belgians had blown up the bridges and plunged the tunnels, so we had to take to autos.

SAW AEROPLANES IN ACTION.

"The advance troops of the army of the Meuse passed us, going towards Liege. Two divisions passed us in two and a half hours. We followed the army towards Dolain, and then on to Verviers. Here we were only 12 miles away from Liege.

"While we were in Verviers the bombardment of Liege began. We left the town and went up to the hills, to the very top of one of them. From here we watched the battle. We saw the aeroplanes flying high in the air, dropping their bombs on the forts and city, and the forts replying with their guns.

"We were in Verviers a week. On Wednesday, August 5, the wounded began to come back from the firing line. I offered my services to the Red Cross Hospital in Verviers, but they did not need me as most of the wounded were cared for at Aalx la Chapelle.

"We had not been in Verviers long before we began to hear tales of terrible atrocities committed by the Germans. We were told the townspeople of Verviers had fired from housetops, killing two soldiers; that women had come out of their homes and killed the German wounded.

"We saw soldiers shooting up that section of the town where the two German soldiers had been killed. The soldiers killed fifteen or sixteen people.

"A proclamation was posted by General von Emmich through the town, saying that if there was any more trouble the whole place would be blown off the map. There wasn't any more trouble.

NO DUM DUMS USED.

"We saw the battle at Tongres and that at Vise. Dolhain was burned while we were in the vicinity. Here they shot an Englishman. The Germans had been shooting all who came from houses. The Englishman came out and fell with a bullet through him.

"The anti-German sentiment here is not fair. The Germans say there is justification for the shooting they are doing; that the townsfolk are the instigators.

"This talk o dum-dum bullets used by the Germans is baseless. I saw lots and lots of the German bullets, and they are all steel jacketed. When these hit up against a wall the nose flattens, and this has probably led to the story of the use of dum-dums.

"After we had spent a week in this section of Belgium, all the Americans were marched back eight miles. We went through the German army. Warriors were all around us, and we saw many of the big siege guns being hurried onward into the Belgium cockpit."

Guard Franconia Off for Liverpool

The Cunard liner Franconia sailed for Liverpool today with ten first-class passengers, thirty second-class. Strictest precautions were taken at the sailing, no one but passengers being allowed on the ship.

Atlantic Sails with "Made in New England" Cargo

Million Dollars' Worth of Goods for Pacific Ports

EMERY LINER ATLANTIC, CAPTAIN MEECH, COMMANDER, AND HER HUGE HOLD

New Prosperity to Come to New England Through Construction of Panama Canal.

The Emery Line steamer Atlantic —Boston's own contribution to the greater prosperity which the Panama Canal is expected to bring to New England—sailed today for the Pacific coast with over a million dollars' worth of "made in New England" goods for our California and Oregon neighbors.

The steamer Pacific, also of the Emery Line, is now being finished at the Fore River Works and will start in this month with another great cargo of New England made goods.

With these two big facts, Boston first of those vessels was the Atlantic. The second, the Pacific, is receiving the finishing touches at Fore River and will be ready to follow the Atlantic in September.

The company has shown the same energy in securing cargo for the new ships that it showed in getting ready for the opening of the canal.

The Atlantic left Boston with her holds filled to the hatch-coamings. Her cargo was the biggest coastwise cargo that ever passed by Boston Light. It consisted of...606 tons, dead weight, of merchandise of the most valuable description, from pins to private pleasure. Her cargo manifest read like a complete list of New England manufactures, from automobile accessories to fine waste baskets.

The Atlantic sailed from Boston direct for Los Angeles, making no stop at the canal ports. From Los Angeles she will sail for San Francisco and Portland, Oregon. Later, arrangements will be made to have the ships of the Emery line call at Seattle and possibly other ports.

The Atlantic will return as she went out, a "full ship." Her return cargo will consist almost wholly of canned salmon, canned fish and dried fruits. In the future the company expects to take shipments of shingles, lumber and other Pacific slope products.

The company will pay, by reason of the repeal of the exemption clause for American shipping in the canal tolls act, about $2,000 tolls each way through the canal. A government measure has restored the Atlantic and given her a rating for canal tolls collection.

Captain J. A. Meech of the Atlantic is a veteran commander in the Emery service, his last command being the Penobscot.

Rev. John Dowdle of Holy Crosh Dead

WORCESTER, Sept. 2.—Rev. John Dowdle, past nine years treasurer of Holy Cross College, died today, aged seventy years. Brother Dowdle, as he was known, was born at Ann Arbor, Mich. Before coming to Worcester he was instructor at Fordham College, New York, and St. Francis Xavier College.

Woburn Explosion Causes $25,000 Fire

The explosion of a gas stove in the bowling alley and pool room of Michael H. Smith of No. 37 Main street, Woburn, started a disastrous fire there today. The building was partially destroyed, while two houses at Nos. 19 and 23 Main street caught from the sparks. The total loss was $2,500. John Garvey owns the house at No. 25 Main street and Thomas Devoni the other.

Bishop Lawrence to Give Labor Sermon

Bishop Lawrence will deliver the sermon Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock services for wage earners in the St. Paul's Cathedral, in Tremont street.

Italians Protest Acts of Germany

ROME, Sept. 3.—A deputation of fifteen members, representing all the political parties, petitioned the government today to join with the United States in a protest against Germany's "Repeated violation of international law."

Man Fined $10 for Throwing Bottle

Dennis Hurley, after he and several companions emptied a quart bottle of tonic beer on C street, South Boston, hurled the bottle at a Polish resident who was passing by, striking him on the head. Hurley was arrested and fined $10. He appealed.

Fined for Stealing and Carrying Gun

James Kerrigan, in the Charlestown court today, was fined $15 for stealing a revolver from Alfred Van Wyck and $50 for carrying the same revolver.

What Cadum Is Made Of

Cadum, the well-known remedy for Eczema and other skin troubles, is one of the very few preparations sold in drug stores that is not secret. A list of its ingredients is printed upon every box. One ingredient is oil of cade, which is recognized by doctors as being one of the best things known for Eczema. Another ingredient is zinc oxide, which dries up the water that forms upon sore places on the skin. Two other ingredients are petrolatum and white wax, which make a covering to protect these sore spots from the air and water. A trial box of Cadum can be secured in any drug store for 10c, but it is cheaper to buy the 25c size, as it contains nearly four times as much as the 10c box.

From henceforth, indeed, his help must be in the name of the Lord who created Heaven and earth.

Then from thousands of voices arises the answer:

"Long live the Holy Father !"

when it began to look as though the rivalry between the supporters of Cardinal Maffi and Cardinal Ferrata would cause the proceedings to an unreasonable length.

POPE BORN IN 1854.

Pope Benedict XV. is sixty years of age, having been born in 1854. He was ordained in 1878 and nine years later was made secretary to Cardinal Rampolla, one of the most powerful figures in the recent history of the Roman Catholic Church. The ceremony of the conclave upon the election of a Pope is this:

After the ballot has shown an election, the cardinal deacon and two other cardinals approach the successful candidate.

"Do you accept this election?" asks the cardinal deacon. In the case of Cardinal Della Chiesa the answer was in the affirmative. Then all the purple over the cardinals' seats were taken down with the exception of that over the chair of Cardinal Della Chiesa.

"What name will you take?" was the next question of the cardinal deacon.

Cardinal Della Chiesa had evidently felt within him even mind the possibility of his elevation to the head of the great Church of Rome, for he quickly responded: "Benedict XV."

HOMAGE TO NEW PONTIFF.

The new Pope was then led to a high altar, where he robed himself in his pontifical vestments. Then he seated himself before the altar and received the homage of all the other cardinals, who kissed him upon the foot the hand and the cheek.

The choosing of a Pope was done quickly, owing to the troublesome political situation imposed by the European war. It also put at rest a feeling of uncertainty, and in many quarters anxiety, which has been felt all over the world since the death of Pope Pius X., particularly in Europe. It had been felt by all that celerity was imperative in the conclave, because no one knew what hidden influences might be at work that would plunge Italy into war. The prelates wanted to select a citizen of a neutral country; they also felt under obligations to the traditions of the church to select an Italian. Therefore speed was necessary.

When the conclave came to an end it was learned that Cardinal Vannutelli had sustained a broken leg during the course of the deliberations. Cardinal Vannutelli was confined to his bed suffering from a slight fever. His friends express some alarm, owing to his advanced age and his general physical condition. He was suffering from nervous prostration.

Early in the day and before the conclave came to an end, Baron Derp, the Belgium ambassador to the Vatican, asked and received permission to deliver a telegram to Cardinal Mercier, archbishop of Malines (or Mechlin), Belgium. The telegram, which was supposed to have referred to the war situation in Belgium, was passed to Cardinal Mercier by one of the attaches of the conclave.

MERCIER IN TEARS.

When Cardinal Mercier emerged later his face showed traces of weeping. In a voice which trembled with emotion, he exclaimed: "I will drink this bitter cup to the dregs. God's will be done."

The interregnum between the regime of Pope Pius X. and Pope Benedict XV. was just about two weeks. Pope Pius dying on the morning of August 20. In the meantime the affairs of the church have been administered by Cardinal Della Volpe, the camerlingo.

Another important function, which follows the election of a pope is the selection of a papal secretary of state. It is customary for the secretary of state to resign when a pope dies. Consequently that office was vacated by Cardinal Merry del Val when Pope Pius X. died.

The fisherman's ring, or the ring of St. Peter, which is always worn by the Pope as the insignia of his high office, has been broken up and remolded since the death of Pope Pius X. This ring will be worn by Pope Benedict XV. during his term of office.

TODAY'S ELECTION ENTIRELY UNEXPECTED IN CHURCH CIRCLES

By C. O'CONNELL GALVIN.

Though papal elections are proverbially a surprise, the election of today is the most unexpected in the recent history of the church.

As long as it was generally accepted that an Italian cardinal would be the choice of the conclave, the names of Cardinal Ferrata and of Cardinal Ferrari were the most frequently mentioned in the dispatches sent out by the best informed correspondents in Rome.

The choice of Cardinal Pecci, who assumed the title of Leo XIII., was not an unexpected selection as the successor of Pius IX. Neither was the choice of Cardinal Sarto—Pius X., who has just passed away—entirely unlooked for, except by the recipient of the high office himself. For it was his intense desire that the conclave would choose some other cardinal and permit him to return to his beloved Venice to live there for the remainder of his days.

The scene today in the great square of San Pietro must have made an inspiring picture, as the immense multitude gathered in front of the grand basilica of St. Peter, knelt while the new Pope, clad in the white robes of his exalted office, stood at a window in the portico of St. Peter's and in loud voice intoned the first benediction of his pontificate.

WILL WAIT FOR PEACE.

While the ceremony of the coronation of the Pope will not take place until peace is once more restored among the nations of Europe, it will, when the time does come, make a most impressive spectacle.

The coronation will take place in the Basilica of St. Peter's. It will be attended by all the dignitaries of the church that can be present, from all the nations of the world. There will be in attendance and acting as escort to the new Pope, when he makes his solemn progress from the Vatican to St. Peter's, the great organizations of the laity whose foundation dates back in the centuries.

The Knights of the Cape and Sword, the Knights of the Holy Sepulchre and the Commendatores of the Order of Knights of St. Gregory the Great are the principal lay organizations. Clad in their splendid uniforms, which will lend an air of grand variety to the impressive scene, they will precede the members of the Sacred College of Cardinals as they make slow and stately progress toward the papal throne.

During the solemnization of the pontifical mass the famous choir of the Sistene Chapel—the greatest choir of male singers in the world—will intone the music.

The most important event of all comes at the end of the mass. It is the crowning of the Pope.

GIVEN TRIPLE CROWN.

Accompanied by the cardinals the new pontiff goes to the Tomb of the Apostles. As he takes his place upon the dais the choir intones the ancient hymn, "Corona aurea super caput eius," "On his head gleams the golden crown."

While this is being sung, the dean of the cardinals takes the episcopal mitre from the new pope's head and replaces it by the tiarra, or triple crown. As he does this the cardinal says:

"Receive the tiara ornamented with three crowns. Remember thou art the Father of Princes and Kings, the Rector of the World, the Vicar on Eearth of our Saviour, Jesus Christ, who is the honor and glory of all centuries."

To which the pope replies:

"May the holy apostles, Peter and Paul, in whose help, power and authority we trust, be our intercessors with the Lord."

Then the newly crowned pope arises and, in all the splendor of his pontifical vestments, gives to the congregation his apostolic benediction.

PASSING GLORY.

In all the elaborate ceremony one simple scene is enacted, which, in its way, is the most impressive incident of all. It comes at the supreme moment when, as the tiara is placed upon the pontiff's head, a gray up in the dome arises the strain of the silver trumpet march of asuttion to the latest pope. At the height of the strain in front of the papal throne, bearing in his right hand a torch of flax.

SHOES TO COST MORE IF WAR IS CONTINUED

By C. E. BOSWORTH,
Secretary Shoe and Leather Reporter Company.

Not in a full half-century, if ever before, have the tanners and shoe manufacturers of this country been confronted with such a serious problem as that which stands before them today awaiting solution.

Their problem is also the problem of the people in every plane of society, because the end of the supply of raw materials for the production of shoes and leather is already in sight. Persons who fully realize the importance of immediate action for self-protection will buy shoes now for future use, and it is worthy of especial note, when we realize fully how acute the situation is, that dealers have not taken advantage of the situation and raised their prices.

As a matter of fact, they not only have continued to sell at former prices, but most of them are now in the midst of their Summer clearance sales, offering real bargains in footwear, while retailers all about them have raised the prices on other necessities whether or not such increases were warranted by the real conditions.

WAR NOT WHOLLY TO BLAME.

The great European war is not alone responsible for the present straits. Hide and skin prices have advanced steadily for many months. When tanners asked for a proportionate increase in the price of leather, shoe manufacturers were reluctant to pay it; and, instead of placing blanket orders for leather to be delivered during a long period of time, they ordered leather in small lots as they needed it.

Tanners were cautious, therefore, and through their inability to judge just how much leather they would sell, they curtailed production, so as to prevent any great accumulation of finished leather, and made just enough to keep pace with the demand.

This increase in the price of their raw materials and the influx of foreign leathers after the tariff was removed both aggravated this universal caution of tanners, and today we are without any appreciable accumulation of finished leather in this country.

RAW MARKETS CLOSED.

At present it is impossible to get cowskins and horsehides from Russia, our greatest source of supply for these products. European hides, for the making of upper, sole and belting leathers, are also unavailable. South American hides come to us by way of Europe, so that that source of supply is also useless at this time. And the millions of kid and goat skins from India and neighboring countries, together with those which we usually get from South America, are also unavailable. France and Germany supply us with our best calfskins. We will be unable to get more of this excellent stock for many months.

More than this, our tanners import most of their tanning materials and coloring matter. There is no supply of these things on hand to satisfy anything more than immediate wants, and even if tanners could get enough domestic hides and skins, they would be at a loss to tan them for want of these materials. It is no wonder that prices of leather have risen from two to four cents a foot in the past four days, and despite the increases, tanners are reluctant to sell to any but shoe manufacturers who buy from them regularly.

It has been suggested that fabrics and felt soles would creep in now to meet the emergency, but it must be remembered that most of the shoe cloths are imported, and though felt soles are practically perfected, not only for special shoes, but also for shoes for every day wear, all or nearly all, the wool and hair which go into felt are also imported, and relief in this direction will be months in coming.

Even the materials for the manufacture of fibre board, for counters and such uses in footwear, are also imported, and it is already a big problem to find enough of these inner parts of shoes to supply the demand for more than a short time.

SHORTAGE OF CATTLE.

We were once in a more fortunate situation, for it was but a few years ago that cattle were roaming our plains in the proportion of three to one to our population, but agriculture replaced grazing so rapidly that our cattle supply has dwindled so that the proportion is now exactly the reverse of what it was only these few years ago. We have naturally come to depend upon foreign countries for our supply of raw materials and now we are as unable to get these products as though we ourselves were besieged by a belligerent nation powerful enough to close our ports.

When the European disturbance is over, the consuming public will not benefit by the reopening of our sources of supply for some time to come, because the great shoe and leather producing countries of Europe will still be suffering industrial paralysis and will look to this country more than ever for the finished product. It is obviously a timely action to buy shoes now to put away for future use.

The Lynn Chamber of Commerce sounded a prosperity note by announcing that the old A. C. Fisher leather factory on Marion street, Lynn, long idle, has been leased and will shortly open, employing 500 hands, with an annual payroll of about $250,000.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Manuel Gonzales, Consul-General of Costa Rica, who has called a meeting of the Latin-American consuls for today, believes the New World will be made commercially independent of Europe during the war by establishing a Pan-American banking system, by education of the merchants of both countries, by co-operation and by inter-communication between North and South America.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Francisco Urquidi, Mexican Consul-General, says: "I have been obliged to establish a separate bureau to take care of inquiries as to commercial opportunities in Mexico. Three large firms have just informed me they send representatives to Mexico within the week."

The American Wool and Cotton Reporter says that while many dyestuffs come from abroad and cannot be produced here, aniline colors have been produced here, and can be produced in large quantities if the chemical benzol can be secured. "There is a possibility of reverting to some of the older dyestuffs, such as logwood." The Reporter believes dyestuffs will be found.

'EDITORIALS BY MR. HEARST HAVE HIT THE MARK'

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 3.—E. L. Doheny has returned from New York after making efforts to secure the safe return to this country from Germany of J. E. Retsold, the mother of Mrs. Doheny. He finds prospects of such promise that he will visit his great oil properties in Tampico districts in Mexico in a short time.

"The European tragedy centres interests and emotions," said Mr. Doheny, "but it presents complex problems that we as a people must meet.

"Mr. Hearst in his editorial utterances has impressed on our people the duty of immediately availing themselves of the opportunities for action in quick development of the needed shipping and the furtherance of rapid commercial relations where these have been stopped as a result of the war.

"I fully agree with Mr. Hearst in this. Now is the time for our country to extend its trade to all the markets of the world, and particularly to those of the countries to the south of us which have been dependent on Europe and whose wants must be supplied by us or no one."

"HUSTLE" FOR FOREIGN TRADE, URGES FORBES

By B. C. FORBES.

The United States is preparing to fight three wars—wars of conquest.

* * *

The United States means to win important victories—

First—On the sea;

Second—In international banking;

Third—In foreign trade.

The head of one colonial enterprise whose ships are ready to hoist the American flag assures me that President Wilson intends to promulgate "very liberal" regulations governing the admission of ships. This high authority is confident the Stars and Stripes will shortly flutter at many a masthead and in numerous ports where the American emblem has been but a memory for decades.

* * *

* * *

Yesterday the Federal Reserve Board granted permission to establish branches of American national banks in Argentina and Brazil. Chili, it is understood, will also be invaded shortly.

* * *

Non-business people can have no conception of the importance of this step or of the fundamental necessity for providing powerful banking facilities in South America as a preliminary to building up permanent, extensive trade with that continent.

* * *

Without American banks, South American trade could never be fully captured by the United States.

* * *

The intricacies, the difficulties, the delays and the diplomacy incidental to the successful founding of American banking institutions in South America are almost beyond the layman's grasp. The problem is less one of money than men and management. Knowledge not only of banking at home, but of both banking and commercial practices in each South American territory is essential. Then, too, first-hand acquaintance with local firms and with credits is essential in the case of those placed in charge of the new foreign branches.

* * *

Just how much work and study is being exerted by the National City Bank at present in connection with its project the public cannot guess. From President Vanderlip down, officers, experts called in for the purpose and clerks are all busy on one or other phase of the enterprise.

* * *

But that the gold dollar will are long rival the English pound sterling as an international banking instrument no one need doubt.

* * *

As for our contest for new foreign markets, who can fail to feel immensely encouraged? The columns of the Hearst and other newspapers have been so full of inspiring reports on this subject that no attempt need be made here to cover the ground.

* * *

What I would rather emphasize today is that the United States must heeds "hustle" if it hopes to get ahead of England in the worldwide battle for the foreign markets lost to Germany. England is not too engrossed in war to exploit commercial possibilities.

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTING NEWS

BRAVES LEAD THE LEAGUE
BY DOUBLE VICTORY OVER THE PHILLIES AND GIANTS' DEFEAT

BRAVES ON TOP AFTER A LONG, HARD BATTLE

WHAT MAY HAPPEN TODAY

If the Braves win and the Giants lose, the Boston leaders will be two full games ahead of the champions of other years.

If the Braves win and the Giants also win, the Braves will hold their present lead of one game.

If the Braves lose and the Giants win, the Braves will be second, according to figures, though practically tied with the Giants. The rating will be: Giants, .557; Braves, .556.

If the Braves lose and the Giants lose, the Braves will still retain their lead of one full game.

By NICK FLATLEY.

First place, with the entire league behind, is at last the proud perch of the smashing, battering, all-conquering Braves. The long chase has ended. The fight is now on to hold the fore, through thick and thin down to the end of the season.

Yesterday's mad rush of the Climbers settled beyond all doubt any question of their right to be up there in front making the pace.

The Phillies this afternoon will probably have to face the redoubtable Lefty Tyler, despite the fact that said Quakers are supposed to have a liking for batters of opposite proclivities. Lefty has been moving 'em all down this season, and even the fact that the mighty Alexander will most likely oppose him in the box will not take a bit of confidence out of the Boston brigade.

TYLER DUE TODAY.

Stallings might have saved James yesterday, after the Braves had stored away that first game beyond all doubt in the opening frames, but he refused to vary the program that has worked so well in the races to the roof. No doubt he figures that the best way to force the Giants to do a Rodman Law and start downward is to keep the Braves winning.

The chances are now that he will work Tyler today, try Strand or Hess against the Quakers tomorrow and chase back either Rudolph or James for the Saturday game. Then he will have Tyler and whichever member of the "big three" does not work Saturday, for the Monday double fray with the Giants, the Saturday performer for the Tuesday battle.

While his plan of campaign in this immediate case might not appeal to many expert critics of matters baseball, George has accomplished the impossible this season, and can be depended on to keep right on doing the same.

THRILLING CHASE ENDED.

Yesterday's performance marked the completion of the greatest climb in all the history of major league baseball. Shortly after the first of July, the Braves were apparently mired in last place, fifteen games behind the champion Giants, who, to all appearance, had another pennant all sewed up.

But the Braves, in a great trip through the West, started for the front. Out on the trails they won twelve of the fifteen games they played. They came home in the first division, to the rear of the Cardinals and the Cubs, and to all intents and purposes, too far back of the Giants to ever hope to crawl up.

A sensational home stand, however, in which they won eleven games while losing but three, sent them again out on the foreign fields only six games and a half back of the leading Giants.

They started the work away from the home pasture by cleaning up the Giants in three straight games, and then took nine and dropped five in a jaunt which took them through the Western points of the circuit.

After the Philadelphia series, opened so auspiciously yesterday, comes on and then they will come home for a stand of twenty playing days, during which time they will have twenty-six games.

CAMPAIGN A SENSATION.

Their wonderful climb, the sensation of a baseball year chock full of sensations, has seen them win twelve and lose four while working through into the first division task and then and drop three at home while getting within striking distance of the van, and a final clean-up of fourteen wins against five losses while getting the undisputed ownership of the uttermost heights.

Totalled up, they have won thirty-five battles while losing twelve. What makes their performance all the more wonderful, more than half have been games in the time have been fought against first-division teams, all having a splendid chance to land the final honors and all accordingly playing the hardest kind of baseball against the Climbers.

Looked on as a veritable minor league outfit by every critic found in the country who knew anything about baseball, less than two months ago, the Braves today are universally hailed a great ball team.

FIGHT SPIRIT DID IT.

They have gone through on their fighting spirit—a spirit infused by Manager Stallings, who refused to be discouraged when luck frowned and kept pegging away with never a letup. His efforts have earned him, and deservedly, the title "Miracle George."

Just about now, all excepting the well-known New York critics, who, as we are aware, have heretofore persisted in believing that the Giants would beat even the Athletics in a world's series, are unanimous in admitting that the Braves are the logical candidates for the premier honors of the season of 1914 in the National League.

Unless they slump badly, and it is not in reason to suppose that a team will crack after going through such months of desperate sort of fighting that has been the lot of the Braves, the Climbers will come mighty close to having a grip hold on the van when the first days of October, with the final big excitement, roll round.

No team in baseball has ever faced harder opposition and come through more gloriously. There has never been the slightest evidence of a lapse of confidence on the part of the players, and now that they are finally out in front, it's only reasonable to suppose that they will hang along with a lot more heart than when they were down in the ruck, almost hopelessly out of it.

Today they rest a full game ahead of the Giants. If they lose this afternoon and the McGraws win, they will slide back into second place. The figures just now are:

	W.	L.	Behind
Braves	65	51	Leader
Giants	63	51	1 game

The pair will be virtually a tie if the aforementioned matter of a loss for Boston and a win for New York becomes a matter of history in this afternoon's battles. But they will be in second by the figures, on which, in the long run, it all depends.

If the Braves lose and the Giants win today, here is how the two will rate:

Giants	64	51	.55633
Braves	65	51	.55555

By the end of the week, however, the two teams will be on even terms as regards games played, unless the weather intervenes, as the Giants must play double bills both Friday and Saturday with the Dodgers. Incidentally this is not going to be the greatest help in the world for the McGraw pitchers.

Consequently, when they arrive here Labor Day, there will be some turnout to watch the stalwart Stallings stars try and put the final crusher on all Giant hope. Unless we miss our guess close to 60,000 people will watch the two holiday battles.

CONNIE MACK SAYS THE BRAVES WILL BE TOUGH FOR ATHLETICS

Connie Mack, manager of the world's champion Athletics, believes his team will have a hard time in defeating the Braves if it so happens that the team clash in the world's series this season.

"Manager Stallings and the Braves deserve a world of credit for their plucky spurt from the bottom of the ladder to the lead in the National League," said Manager Connie Mack.

"Too much credit cannot be given Stallings. He is a great baseball leader, and I have always considered him as such."

"There is an impression abroad that I want to correct. Many fans think that the Athletics, by reason of their recent world's series successes, hold their opponents, whoever they may be, lightly. That is not true. One mistake my boys have never made is to underestimate their rivals.

BUT MATTY SAYS BRAVES CAN'T WIN

Christy Mathewson, the Giants' stand-by, has written an article to prove that the Boston Braves are "not of championship calibre" and that they are qualified to rank only as tail-enders.

SPORT NOTE.

"Those Braves are boobs," says Mathewson;

"The game they cannot play.
"They've really got my sympathy"——
(They won again today).
"The normal place for those poor scouts
"Is with the blind and lame.
"They cannot hit, they cannot run".
(They've won another game).
"They haven't got our calibre,
"They haven't got our way."
But really, just consider this——
They won again today.

Sidelights on Sports

By A. H. G. MITCHELL

NOW, then, boys three long cheers for the Braves. They are up there at last, undisputed leaders of the National League race, one full game ahead of the Giants, playing like a whirlwind and full of confidence.

THE unexpected has really happened. Some of us who went South with the Braves on their training trip made the prediction that the new order under Stallings would finish in the first division.

It is hardly likely that any of us thought they would win the pennant. As far as the writer is concerned he based his belief on first-division club largely on Stallings.

THIS column has repeatedly called attention to the rare ability of Stallings as an organizer of a ball club. Not only does he know how to organize a ball club, but he knows every angle of the game and he is a fighter that is able to make his men fight with him.

THE Braves may not win the pennant, but today they have the best chance of any club in the National League to do so. The "crack" predicted by many well informed men, such as McGraw and Mathewson, has not developed. And it is doubtful if they will "crack." They will lose games, of course, but there is no reason to believe they will "crack."

BASEBALL predictions are tickish things to make, because baseball is such an uncertain game. There are so many big and little things that may happen in a club—things that range from the injury to one or two star players to a pebble that gets in the way of a batted ball causing the loss of the game.

THE Braves have had their share of "breaks" in their favor in the past six weeks, but the club that is fighting usually gets them and they are turned to the best advantage.

IT may interest Messrs. McGraw, Mathewson and a few others to know that the Braves took to the tobogganing in the second game at Philadelphia yesterday. They started off with five runs in the first inning and then took a terrible slump in the second, only scoring four runs.

It was even worse in the third when they were only able to pile up three tallies. After this they broke completely and didn't score again. This ought to show McGraw that Stallings' men are on the downward grade.

FENWAY PARK seats about 32,000 persons, yet from the way things look just now ropes will be needed for the afternoon game of Labor Day when the Giants play the Braves here in Boston. If the day is at all pleasant, there is no doubt but that a tremendous crowd will turn out both in the morning and in the afternoon.

THE Braves remain in Philadelphia the rest of the week, but will open up at Fenway Park on Monday with McGraw's men.

FROM the looks of yesterday's score it would seem that Rube Marquard has not yet "come back" in the proper manner. The Brooklynes had no trouble in getting to him.

WHEN it comes to feeling the strain you can bet the limit that the Giants are feeling it right now considering more than the Braves and if there is any "cracking" to be done it would not be surprising to find that the Giants are the ones to "crack."

THE great baseball machine from Philadelphia, known as the Athletics, are with us again in charge of the able and astute Connie Mack. They say the Mackmen are rooting for the Giants to win because they believe there will be more money in it for them and because they believe they "have it on" McGraw's team.

But if the Braves win the flag in the National League it will be found that Fenway Park will hold considerable gate money.

THE pitchers in the doubleheader at Fenway Park yesterday did considerable execution with the bludgeon. In the first game Mitchell singled and James singled. For the Red Sox Gregg made two safe hits.

In the second game Bedient pounded out two singles something he has not done of an afternoon since he became a member of the Red Sox.

A CURIOUS thing about the second game was that the Browns made five safe hits in succession in the third inning yet only scored two runs.

IT was mighty hot work for everybody, including the spectators. All hands grew peevish before the sport ended. Umpire Egan canned a St. Louis coacher for suggesting that he "get 'em up."

CHAMPIONS OF GOLF WORLD IN MATCHES TODAY

MANCHESTER, Vt., Sept. 3.—Play in the second round of the national amateur golf championship tournament at the Ekwanok Country Club ran true to form and every favorite was victor.

The present title holder, Jerome D. Travers of Upper Montclair; three former champions, Walter J. Travis of Garden City, W. C. Fownes, Jr., of Pittsburgh, and Robert A. Gardner of Hinsdale, and Francis Ouimet of Woodland, amateur champion of France, were among the eight survivors who are expected to make the third round today, one of high class golf.

Interest in the second round competition centred in the match between Champion Travers and Eben M. Byers of Allegheny. Travers won by 5 up and 4 to play.

Ouimet bested W. I. Howland, Jr., by 4 up.

Fownes defeated R. W. Lewis of Ridgefield, Ct., by 6 up.

Ray R. Gorton of Brae-Burn had to play his best golf to survive. J. N. Stearns, 2d, of Princeton, brought the play to the thirty-sixth hole for decision, where Gorton won by 2 up.

J. P. Guilford of Instrees, N. H., a boy of seventeen years, with remarkable driving powers, was eliminated by Roy D. Webb of Englewood by 1 up.

Braves Will Win Flag, Says Wright

Fred E. Wright, one of the champion rooters for the Braves, in a letter addressed to Secretary Herman Nickerson today, invited the homecoming league leaders to attend next Monday night's performance of "Along Came Ruth," the piece now running at the Majestic. The reply came as follows:

"Manager Stallings and his Braves accept invitation to performance of new Savage play at Pinpath Theatre Labor Day. Team full of fight and confident of victory. HERMAN NICKERSON."

"The Braves," said Colonel Wright today, "have won the unbounded admiration of the baseball public all through the country. To do this they've had to overcome what has been for more than ten years the perpetual opinion of the whole baseball world. I believe everyone realizes this. It is needless for me to say that the Braves will win the pennant."

Fenway Park for All Braves Games

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—President Gaffney of the Braves has accepted the offer of President Lannin of the Red Sox for the use of Fenway Park for the remainder of the Braves' home games, twenty-six in all.

September 16, which will be the opening of the St. Louis series, will be observed as Evers day, when a big delegation of Troy friends of the Boston captain will attend.

"Do you know next Monday's a holiday?" I reminded Bill.

"Sure," he says, "Labor Day. They call it that because everybody quits a regular job to work a lot harder by walking ten or twelve miles in a hot parade."

"Well," I keep on, "I wrote some poetry about it."

"Help," says Bill; "wait till I get another bottle of Hampden."

"What for?" I ask.

"To put me in good humor and good physical condition so I can stand it. Now shoot."

"We greet you, workers,
With joyous hail;
We drink your health

"Just one improvement, I'd suggest," says Bill.

"What's that?" I ask.

"Oh," says Bill, "just cut out everything but the last two words and say them over the 'phone to the dealer."

ATHLETICS' BIG BAND OPENS IN DOUBLE BILL

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

The Athletics are here for the remainder of the week for the purpose of tackling the Red Sox this afternoon at 1.30 o'clock in four games with a double-header to open the proceedings.

This trip of the Athletics to Boston is supposed to be the last one of the year, but perhaps they will come again. We hope so. If they do come it will be as opponents of the Braves in the world's series.

But as far as the Mackmen playing the Red Sox is concerned the four games this week will wind them up for the year in this city. The visiting players are not yet sure of the pennant in their league. While they practically have it won they cannot yet afford to take things easy, especially with the Red Sox, who are their nearest competitors for the hunting. Therefore, Mr. Mack is expected to put his best men in the field, and they will, of course, play their hardest, for, if perchance, they should drop four straight games to the Sox it would put quite a crimp in the number of points that separate the two teams in the percentage column.

Carrigan has evidently been holding back "Dutch" Leonard for the Athletics, and it is expected that the star left-hander will oppose the Mackmen in the first game this afternoon. George Foster may pitch the second game.

Mack works his twirlers in such a fashion these days that it is hard to guess the names of the twirlers he will pit against the Red Sox pair.

Carrigan's men have had some tough work lately. Today's games will mark the fourth double-header for them this week. On Friday and Saturday there is only one game to be played each day. They will seem like days off to the tired athletes.

The weather is quite warm for September, isn't it?

SEA GIRT, Sept. 3.—The Sea Girt championship, the Libbey and Wimbledon matches were the features of the day here.

The Sea Girt was won by Corporal F. Coppedge, United States Marine Corps, with a total score on the four ranges of 188. Lieutenant A. W. Lee of the navy was second, with a 188, and Sergeant James Loughlin of Massachusetts third, with 187.

The Libbey match went to Captain W. H. Richard of Connecticut with 92. Major W. A. B. Martin of New Jersey finished second with 89, while James Loughlin of Massachusetts was third, with 86.

A. W. Lee of the navy shot his way to victory in the Wimbledon match with a score of 94.

Captain Chase of Massachusetts was third in the shoot for range officers.

Army-Navy Game for Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3. — The Army-Navy football game will be played in this city this Fall, according to announcement made by E. J. Berlet, chairman of the business men's committee, who has been endeavoring to secure the return of the game to Philadelphia.

Mr. Berlet states that he has been notified that "the West Point football authorities have agreed to the ultimatum from Annapolis that the contest must be staged here."

Shibe Park, the American League baseball grounds here, has been offered for the game. With the erection of extra stands, the grounds, Mr. Berlet said, will seat more than 40,000 spectators.

Jeff Smith Will Return to Australia

Jeff Smith is not going to tarry long in America, having accepted terms with "Snowy" Baker for another trip to Australia.

They will sail from San Francisco on September 29 and Smith is under contract for three fights before returning. Just who will be his opponents is not known, but Clabby Hardy will be one of them, as he was to sail for America today.

Manager Lippe says that Smith would like to have one fight here before going back to Australia, and that if necessary he could postpone their departure probably thirty days. By staying here until late in October he could engage in a couple of fights.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Bobby Walthour of Atlanta, Ga., defeated a classy field in the fifty-mile motor-paced race at the Brighton Beach Motordrome. George Wiley, the American champion, was second; Clarence Carmen of Jamaica, third, and Percy Lawrence, San Francisco, fourth. Walthour's time was 1h. 2m 49 2-5s., a new record.

$1,000 TO BACK WILEY IN RACE AGAINST TIME

The offer of a $500 bet on the eve of the middle-distance motor-paced championships at the Revere cycle track that Wiley, the present title-holder, cannot better the hour record made early in the season by Leon Didier of France, has aroused the local bike fans and they have already raised a purse of $1,000 to back the Syracuse rider.

The bet, or the offer, was made according to the track officials, by an F. L. Scott, who was present at the race meet on Tuesday night and very anxious to have an audience with Wiley, and it was only after a visit to the training quarters that the bet was looked out.

Wiley says he never makes a gamble of any kind, but adds that he can easily beat this mark and as the race in question was to be simply against time and not in competition, makes it much easier. The little title holder also points to the fact that he has already beaten the mark established by Didier and on the Beach track also, when he made forty-two miles and four laps, which was two laps better than that made by his former French rival.

The title race is anxiously awaited by the fans, who are not forced to wait a week owing to rain last Saturday night, but from reports of other riders, Wiley is going to have his work cut out for him.

Without, who was given an outside chance is looming up strong with a new record for the 'cyclists distance made last night against a big field, while Moran, Mitten and Carman are also riding fast.

Drew Loses First Race in Four Years to B. A. A. Runner

Howard Drew was defeated for the first time in four years in a handicap or scratch race at Fitchburg by H. I. Treadway, wearing the colors of the B. A. A., with five yards' handicap in the 140-yard dash, beat him by fully three yards. Treadway's time was 0 4-5s.

Halpin won the 440-yard run and Power of the B. A. A. took the mile run. Drew easily defeated a large field in the 120-yard dash. Ilgue another B. A. A. man, took first honors in the 880-yard run.

Julian Poor Second.

SYRACUSE, Sept. 3.—Jerry Moriarty and Kid Julian fought a slashing ten-round bout at the Arena A. C. It was a bout to settle the local 133-pound championship. Moriarty won by a big margin.

Big Sport Program for Hibernian Day

The Gaelic football game at the Hibernian field day at the Locust street grounds on Labor Day will be furnished by those strong rivals, County Roscommon and County Clare. The committee is proud of the fact that the B. A. A. and Irish-American A. A. relay teams will meet in a special match race at this field day.

The hurling games will be between the Wolf Tones and the Shamrocks both of South Boston and the Young Irelands of Cambridge and the Emmets of Boston. These promise to be great features of the big sport carnival.

Ralph Uses His Whip and Sends Tom and His Car Over a Bridge.

By VIRGINIA TERHUNE VAN DE WATER.

CHAPTER XLIII.

THE hypocrite or the liar is likely to prove himself a coward when forced to contemplate the probability of being faced by the evidences of his wrongdoing or deceit. Ralph Morton would have declared himself to be a brave man. Certainly he had not hesitated to run great risks to advance his own interests. But to dare and to be brave are not one and the same thing.

As he drove tonight, alone with his thoughts, he suddenly found himself afraid, horribly afraid, of the exposures that his cousin might make. Desperation, the unreasoning fear of an almost trapped animal, possessed him as, holding the steering wheel tightly, he watched the yellow road slip toward him in the glare of his headlights. One thought alone he clung to with hope: Tom must keep Tom Morton from going to the Hale home.

How to do this he did not know, but he was determined to use every effort in his power to check his cousin. He would persuade, command, intimidate—yet he knew now, as he had known every minute of the evening, that none of these things would change Tom in his course. Well, then, he would maim him—even, if necessary, kill him. There was a wild, menacing glitter in his eyes as plan after plan surged through his mind and broke into the froth of impracticability.

Suddenly he threw on his brakes and brought his car to a sliding stop. He was well outside the town now. The white pathway cut into the darkness by the scatlyss lamps shone along the road leading to the New York ferry. Tom must come this way. He would wait for him here. With fingers that trembled, Ralph lit a cigarette, then stepped down into the road. In his hand he held the slender whip he had bought a few minutes since.

HE RELIES ON FORTUNE

Fortune had favored him lately, he reminded himself, to calm his nerves. Of course she would help him in this crisis. If not—he set his lips in a hard line to prevent their twitching—he would help himself. The tip of his cigarette glowed hotly in the darkness as he drew in a quick breath and looked about him calculatingly.

A little ahead of him the road curved sharply; behind him was another turn where it crossed a narrow bridge. He knew that he could recognize Tom's low, red speed-car as soon as it would shoot around the corner into the glare of his own lights. He stood himself on the running board of his machine and waited, whip in hand. Tom Morton always drove fast. He would surely hurry this evening.

The brook gurgled and chuckled loudly beneath the bridge. To the left, above the trees, the searchlight of a Hudson River boat swept across the sky. The night was very still. All at once, far away to the south, a low drone caused a rift in the silence. The man looked at his watch, then slunk back into the darkness behind his car. The drone grew into a hum, the hum into the approaching roar of a speeding car. A growing beam of light shone around the curve on the trees at the side of the road. The man's crouching in the darkness grasped his whip more tightly.

A car swung into the glare of his headlights—a low swung roadster with a single occupant; a warning scream sounded from its horn as it rushed forward, cut-out open, roaring like a machine gun.

As it flashed past, a figure sprang out from behind the waiting automobile. For the fraction of a second the light shone full upon him, photographing for an instant the upraised arm. The sudden, sharp hiss of a lash cut the air, and the man in the car cried out hoarsely. His voice was drowned in the ear-splitting crash as his car, swerving to one side, burst through the guard-rail of the little bridge. There was the splash of water, the groan of tortured metal, then silence.

RALPH STANDS WAITING

Ralph Morton stood motionless in the middle of the road, listening with every nerve taut. Then, twisting the double whip, he thrust it into his car, and, starting the engine, sprang into the driver's seat and sped down the road like a hunted creature whose one idea was flight.

Edith Male sat tense and silent by her mother's side. Her hands were clasped tightly, and she gave seemingly respectful heed to the reminiscenses with which the elder woman was trying to while away the time for herself and her child. Certainly the repetition of these oft-told incidents of a bygone day had the effect of taking the girl's mind from the near-at-hand troubles and perplexities.

Hearing them did not have as happy results for the anxious girl. Not only had she heard them all before many times, but the most interesting story would not have held her attention under existing circumstances. Her thoughts were flying wildly from her lover to her father, stopping occasionally to consider the orphaned girl who had gone away so suddenly and so unfortunately.

The sound of a motor car on the driveway brought Edith to her feet. "That is the car now!" she exclaimed. "I must see him!"

Before her mother could check her she had run downstairs and out upon the veranda.

It was not the car of the master of the house that drew up at the front steps, and a moment later she scarcely recognized called to her.

"Is that you, Edith?"

"Yes, Ralph!" she answered tremulously. "Is anything the matter?"

"Nothing," he replied as he stepped from his car to meet her as she came down the steps. But he drew her to one side so that the light from the hall did not shine on his face. "I thought that perhaps it would be as well for me to be here when Tom came. Is he here yet?"

"No," the girl told him. "he hasn't come — and — oh, Ralph!—Constance has gone!"

"Gone!" the other repeated blankly.

"CONSTANCE HAS GONE!"

"Yes," Edith quavered, "gone—run away, perhaps. Father is out in his car now looking for her. Oh, Ralph—it is terrible! Suppose people learn of it! Think of the talk it will make!"

"But where has she gone?" he insisted. "Didn't she leave any word—any message?"

"No!" Edith replied. Then, her self-control snapping under the strain put upon it for the past hour, she dropped her head upon her lover's shoulder and burst into sobs.

Although Ralph put his arm around her and kissed her, the action was mechanical, for his mind was working swiftly. He was suddenly himself again.

"Perhaps," he said at last, in a steady voice, "that is why Tom Morton has not come."

"No, son; punish you."

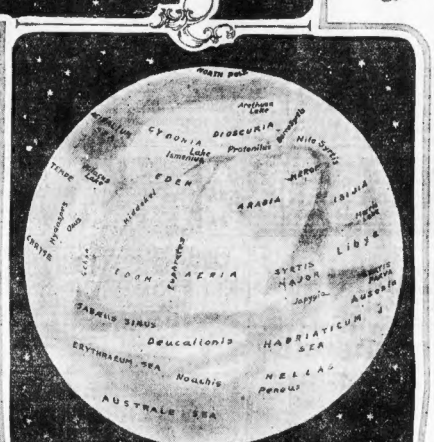
Life on Mars and on the Earth

"When the Two Planets Are Shown on the Same Scale Nobody Can Say That One Is More Likely to Have Inhabitants Than the Other"

If the Earth Were the Size of Mars. Globe Drawn Same Size Shows How Small a Portion of the Earth Would Be Required to Cover One Martian Hemisphere.



Mars, Showing for Comparison the Most Familiar Objects, Such as Sabaeus Sinus and Syrtis Major, Visible in Ordinary Telescopes, and Also Other Prominent Details.

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

HERE are two worlds belonging to the sun's system, usually called the Solar System, placed side by side and drawn to the same scale in order that the eye may more quickly grasp their likenesses and their differences.

They are Mars and the earth, and thus presented they look like twins, with no greater variations in feature than human twins sometimes present. In fact the general likeness between them is startling, and, knowing that the earth is inhabited, the spectator can hardly resist the conclusion that Mars is probably inhabited also. He sees a white cap of snow about the North Pole of each planet, and the darker and lighter regions that diversify the surface of both seem to spell the words "land" and "water" for Mars as well as for the earth.

He says to himself that a voyager through the universe coming in sight of these two planets would surely look upon both of them as promising islands in space, and would steer for either with equal confidence as to finding upon it wood, water and "natives."

If the two really were of the same size, as they are represented here, the chances would be very great in favor of their substantial identity of condition with regard to habitability. But, in truth, the earth's surface is nearly three and a half times more extensive than that of Mars, and its mass, or the quantity of matter in it, is six times as great.

This makes a vast difference in the probable state of affairs on the two planets. Curiously enough it is the physicist and the chemist and not the astronomer who have discovered the strongest arguments concerning the habitability of Mars. The instruments of the laboratory have proved more potent upon this question than the telescope.

It has, for instance, been shown that no planet can retain a permanent atmosphere or water on its surface unless it has sufficient mass to restrain the little molecules of the aerial gases and of watery vapor from gradually escaping into space. The speed with which these molecules continually dart about among one another has been measured for each of the principal gases, and thus the fact has been established that the Earth possesses the requisite mass, or restraining force, while Mars does not. Mars can retain some gases, but not those which are essential to the support of life and the existence of seas, lakes, rivers and rains.

But how, then, came Mars to be marked with such striking "geographical" features, making it look like another earth, with its oceans and continents arranged on a slightly different pattern?

The reply to this may be that in times long past Mars had both air and water in sufficiency. Then, although so much smaller than the earth, it may have possessed seas and lands swarming with life. But, owing to its lack of mass, it could not keep the gaseous elements on its surface. They would not escape all at once, but slowly and gradually.

The little planet would be like an heir whose capital or income was not sufficient to enable him to retain the costly property that had been bequeathed to him. Little by little it would pass away from him and go into stronger hands on the principle that "to him that hath shall be given and from him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he seems to have."

The analogy is very strong, for the law of gravitation requires that the atmosphere which Mars and the moon and other weak worlds have lost must fly to Jupiter, the earth, the sun and other gravitational giants. For a planet, mass is capital, and without a certain amount of this capital no world can enjoy the luxuries of life.

According to this view the apparent landscapes and seascapes of Mars are only shadows of an earlier, happier day, when that small globe knew not yet its poverty.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DON'T LET BOYS KISS YOU

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

A short time ago I met a young man, and after going out with him a few times he wanted to kiss me. I refused to allow him to do it, for which he got angry. I have not heard from him since. I love him dearly and hate to lose him. Did I do wrong? Should I write to him? I am sure he cares for me.

HELEN.

YOU did just the right thing, Helen. If this boy cares for you in the right way he will surely like you all the better for being too dignified to be kissed. If he is one of those scamps who insist on making love to every girl he meets, you are well rid of him. You did the right thing; now don't lower your standard by writing. Let him choose whether or no he will know a fine girl like you.

TOO SELF-CONSCIOUS

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young man twenty-two, and deeply in love with a girl two years my junior, and I think my love is returned, but as I am six feet in height and she is much smaller I feel quite embarrassed when we get out together. Do you think I am justified in feeling that way?

P. M.

IT is absurd for you to feel embarrassed by the fact that you are tall while the girl for whom you care is short. That happens to be just the ideal contrast.

If You Have Any Hair Trouble Read This

Men, women and children do not wash their hair and heads often enough. There has been a mistaken idea for years that frequent washing is bad for the hair. The result is that nearly everybody has more or less hair trouble. Practically everybody has dandruff, and hundreds have hair that is too oily or dry, or hair that is faded or lifeless.

The result of all these troubles is falling hair, and after that comes baldness.

If you will wash your head at least once a week with Birt's Head Wash, your hair will take on new vigor, simply because your scalp will be put in a clean, natural condition, so that your hair can have a chance to grow as it should.

Birt's Head Wash is made of Refined Creamy Soap, Cochin Cocoanut Oil, White of Eggs, Glycerin and Salicylic Acid. Any doctor will tell you this is a good formula.

Birt's Head Wash does not simply take off the dirt, dandruff and microbes from the hair, but it leaves the scalp soft and moist, and the hair fine and glossy. You can see an improvement in the condition of your hair the first time you use it, and dandruff will disappear in a short time. You will be astonished how many impurities will be found on your hair and head, because nothing takes them out like Birt's Head Wash.

Sold in 25c. hygienic tubes, at drug and dept. stores.

WOMEN FROM 45 to 55 TESTIFY

To the Merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound During Change of Life.

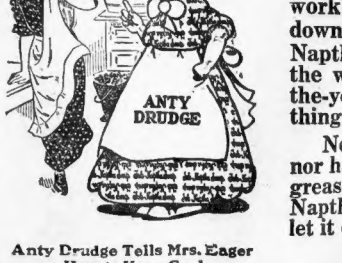
Westbrook, Me.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and had pains in my back and sides and was so weak I could hardly do my housework. I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has done me a lot of good. I will recommend your medicine to my friends and give you permission to publish my testimonial."—Mrs. LAWRENCE MARTIN, 12 King St., Westbrook, Maine.

Manston, Wis.—"At the Change of Life I suffered with pains in my back and sides until I could not stand. I also had night-sweats so that the sheets would be wet. I tried other medicine, but got no relief. After taking one bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began to improve and I continued its use for six months. The pains left me, the night-sweats and hot flashes grew less, and in one year I was a different woman. I know I have to thank you for my continued good health ever since."—Mrs. M. J. BROWNELL, Manston, Wis.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled in such cases.

All our testimonials are guaranteed genuine and truthful. They came to us entirely unsolicited and are sincere expressions of gratitude for actual benefits received from the medicine.

Tired and sick! How many women have felt that way after a hard day's work?



If you use Fels-Naptha Soap for the hard part of your work, you will save your strength; you will have time to do your work thoroughly and still be able to lie down for a rest in the afternoon. Fels-Naptha Soap is the summer soap. It is the winter soap, and the every-day-in-the-year soap. It is the soap that does things right in the easiest way.

No hot water, no boiling of clothes, nor hard rubbing to get them clean; no grease left on dishes or pans. Use Fels-Naptha Soap in cool or lukewarm water; let it do the hard part of your work.

Anty Drudge Tells Mrs. Eager How to Keep Cool

Anty Drudge—"Mercy sakes! What have you been doing to make you so hot? Your face is fairly purple, and you look ready to drop. If you would only use Fels-Naptha Soap, your work wouldn't be half so hard, nor take nearly as long to get through with."

Mrs. Eager—"Well, I certainly am glad to hear of anything that will help me to get through my work. If it will help me find time to rest, too, I will be more than thankful."

Better buy Fels-Naptha by the carton or box.

Follow the directions on the Red and Green Wrapper.

BANKERS TO ADVICE THE GOVERNMENT

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Advices from abroad indicate this country will be able to extend its export trade to new fields. There will be an important conference between financiers and officials at Washington tomorrow and representatives of the government will then hear suggestions from bankers as to what it should do to help restore international credits. This is a matter of utmost importance to all business interests in the United States. It is said trade conditions are improving all over the country. One of the best industrial signs is optimism in steel circles. Sentiment is very conservative in all quarters, however, and prudence is the watchword. The demand for foreign exchange continues to be vastly beyond the supply. While grain exportation continues, business in this country at present is almost wholly dependent upon the domestic market. The rise in grain prices at the opening in Chicago today was due to an advance in Liverpool. Later war reports were considered bullish.

FOREIGN TRADE SITUATION.

No decided change has occurred in the foreign trade situation and exchange rates are still firm. It is understood that the foreign demand for grain is increasing and there are plenty of ships to carry foodstuffs abroad. But there has been little or no improvement in the international credits situation. There may be a change for the better as the result of the conference at Washington tomorrow of leading financiers, business men and government officials. The Federal Reserve Board should play a great part in enabling this country to make the most of its monetary and other resources. The belief is growing that it had best prepare for a protracted war in Europe, and that the longer the conflict lasts the greater advantage the United States may make into business abroad which has been controlled by rivals. The great question of the present is how to make the most of opportunity. It is said that at the Washington conference it will be proposed that the United States government put $100,000,000 in gold at the disposal of banks for the purpose of relieving the international exchange deadlock. The treasury has $152,000,000 of gold in its general fund and it is argued that it could spare 25 per cent. of the amount for the purpose suggested. By some financiers it is claimed this country cannot give its export trade an impetus until it lets go of some of its gold. Others think it best to hold to all gold as long as possible and to let foreign necessities be the spur.

FOREIGNERS WANT STEEL.

It is stated that foreign buying of steel in this country is increasing, with the United States Steel Corporation, as is natural, getting the most of such business. Recent orders from abroad have been for such products as plates, skelp, structural steel, wire rods, fence wire, and wire nails. An Australian plate order for 12,000 in Germany is said to have been transferred to American producers at an advance of $7 a ton in price. In fact it is reported that the most satisfactory feature of the new foreign business is the high prices obtained.

AMERICAN GOODS IN DEMAND.

According to the bulletin by the National Association of Manufacturers there is now a foreign demand for about everything made or produced in the United States and that the call for supplies even includes some of the things which this country imports. But it would be impossible at present to deliver goods to Austria, Germany, Turkey, Greece the Balkan States, Switzerland or Belgium. Supplies for Russia must be shipped by such a roundabout route as San Francisco and Vladivostok.

A vital step towards enlarging South American trade has been taken by the National City Bank of New York, which will establish branches in Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Ayres. The Federal Reserve Board has granted permission under the new currency law. Heretofore it has never have gained control of such a large part of the trade of South America if they had not provided people there with banking connections. If the war lasts long Latin-America will look to this country for financing, as well as for the bulk of their supplies. That would strengthen the Monroe Doctrine materially. New York bankers are still conferring on the exchange situation, and what has been suggested at these private meetings will be taken up at the Washington conference tomorrow. The Federal Reserve Board will be informed then, it is expected, not only how much power Americans to Europeans, but be given an idea of how much gold must be shipped abroad before exportation of grains and other products makes the Old World a debtor instead of a creditor. Bond brokers have postponed for two weeks meeting in New York to consider resumption of trading. It is said that banking sentiment is against proposed dealings in even all-colored bonds at present.

FINANCIAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

The Bank of England reported today that the proportion of its reserve to liabilities is 19.04 per cent., compared with 19.59 for the corresponding time in 1913. It gained within a week $23,860,000 in public and $4,430,000 in private deposits. Its bullion increase was $21,495,000. Five per cent. is still its minimum discount rate.

During the last second fortnight of August the London copper stocks increased 6,700 tons and the visible supply 1,194.

The gross income of the Massachusetts Electric Companies for August decreased $27,000 or 3% per cent.

For July the combined gross of the Pennsylvania and Vaylerbilt lines showed a decrease of more than half of the world's cotton spindles, and it is said that none of its mills is running more than two days a week. Fully one-third of its spindles are idle.

JAPAN SEEKS MORE PANAMA FAIR SPACE

Since Japan declared war on Germany, more than 11,000 additional square feet of exhibit space in the Palace of Manufactures at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco has been added to Japan's original allotment of 20,000 feet in this building, according to a message received by C. O. Power, secretary of the Massachusetts Board of Panama-Pacific Managers from Charles C. Moore, president of the exposition.

President Moore forwards also the following letter:

Considering that we made the most successful exhibit at the St. Louis Exposition at the time of our struggle for national existence against Russia, there is no room for any supposition that our plan will suffer from this war situation.

At this present moment we are arranging for a larger and better exhibit than originally planned, and negotiating for additional exhibit space in all your buildings are now being made with the chiefs of your various departments. Today a cable from Commissioner-General Yamawaki instructed us to secure 10,700 square feet additional space in the Palace of Manufactures.

We will have our exhibits not only as planned, but we are endeavoring to make our exhibits better and larger than our original plans. Our exhibits, buildings and gardens will be ready when the exposition opens.

(Signed) YASUTARO NUMANO,
Consul-General of Japan.

The activity of Japan, since the European war began, is an evidence, commercial men say, of Japan's determination to be a competitor for the great South American trade, which America's commercial concerns are now actively endeavoring to capture. Demands for additional space have been made by each of the South American republics. In fact, so many demands of this nature have been received, that the exposition is finding it practically impossible to comply with requests for more space unless by at least fifteen of the sovereign States of the Union, who also desire additional room for their State exhibits.

TREATY GAINS U.S. ISLAND AS PANAMA FORT

PANAMA, Sept. 3.—The treaty, by which the United States gains control of the waters of the harbors of Colon and Ancon, together with certain other valuable rights, signed here by William Jennings Price, the American Minister, and Ernesto T. Lefevre, Panama Secretary of Foreign Relations, now goes to the United States for ratification by the Senate.

The instrument replaces the Davis agreement of June 25, 1914, in which the boundaries of the canal zone were tentatively fixed.

The United States acquires control over two small islands in Ancon Harbor.

One of these islands will be fortified. The site of Battery Hancock on the Colon waterfront is also given to the United States.

Government Can and SHOULD Build PROSPERITY

Mere Criticism and Tearing Down Is Only Police Work. Not Statesmanship. Not Real Government.

As an individual's growth and prosperity depend upon individual INTELLIGENCE, so national prosperity depends upon GOVERNMENT intelligence.

Individuals in the United States are ready to do the energetic work to produce what the world needs, take legitimate advantage of our peace monopoly, and help the outside world by supplying what Europe cannot supply.

But individual intelligence must have the co-operation of Government intelligence.

As the brain leads the body, directing all new efforts, so the Government must lead the nation.

These four things that the country needs first of all were enumerated in an article published Tuesday over the signature of W. R. Hearst.

First—A gold supply sufficiently large and a currency system sufficiently elastic to meet all the demands of agricultural and industrial production, of trade and transportation, and the consequent financial transactions.

Second—A merchant marine sufficiently great to transport American goods to all parts of the world and to bring back cargoes for American consumption, or for additional American manufacture.

Third—A navy sufficiently powerful to protect our coasts and our commerce, our property and our people at home and abroad.

Fourth—A governmental attitude of encouragement and co-operation as far as all legitimate business, big or little, is concerned.

Those four things the Government needs and must have.

One other thing is needed—THAT MORE OF THE PEOPLE SHOULD UNDERSTAND AND REALIZE WHAT THEY NEED.

A trouble with this country is LACK OF INTEREST IN GOVERNMENT, failure to understand what Government means to the individual.

When we read that the nation needs first a sufficient gold supply; second, a sufficient merchant marine; third, a sufficiently powerful navy, and fourth, a government of encouragement and upbuilding, every individual should realize that what GOVERNMENT needs each of us needs.

The needs of the nation are the needs of the individual, just as the needs of the human body are the needs of every single cell in that body.

When national needs are provided, the individual citizen does well; when national prosperity increases, individual prosperity increases.

Too many of us think of Government only when the price of coal goes up, and ask vaguely why "Government doesn't do something," or when there is a strike on the street car line, so that we cannot get home at night or get to work in the morning.

We fail to realize that Government is THE PARTNER OF EVERY ONE OF US. We fail to realize that as the brain at the top of the body guides the feet and directs the hands, so Government, that is to say, intelligence, at the top of the nation should guide every hand in the nation, smooth out the way for every worker in the nation.

Whether you plan to employ a thousand men, or are hoping that your individual employer may pay you five dollars more a week, makes no difference.

In either case, YOU DEPEND UPON NATIONAL PROSPERITY, AND NATIONAL PROSPERITY DEPENDS LARGELY ON GOVERNMENT EFFICIENCY AND INTELLIGENCE.

It is the duty of the citizen to think for himself and understand for himself what Government should do, what he and his fellow citizens should do, and use all of his power to do his own duty in his own place, and to influence Government for the national good in Government work.

Let us take up briefly the four needs of the country at this moment.

"First—A gold supply sufficiently large and a currency system sufficiently elastic to meet all the demands of agricultural and industrial production, of trade and transportation, and the consequent financial transactions."

The way to have the gold supply IS TO KEEP THE GOLD SUPPLY. It is the duty of bankers, business men and above all the duty OF GOVERNMENT to keep in the United States the gold that we have—and to get and keep in the United States as much more as we may need—if we need more.

The currency system is a matter of intelligence, financial understanding and credit.

The best piece of paper in the world today is that which has on the back of it, or on the face of it, THE GUARANTY OF THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT.

Written on a complicated piece of paper with silk threads and careful steel engraving, that guaranty is good.

Written on an ordinary piece of brown paper, but certain of identification, THAT PIECE OF PAPER IS JUST AS GOOD. If in this world, scarred, battle-torn, anything is valuable and worth a hundred cents on the dollar, IT IS THE GUARANTY OF THE UNITED STATES TO PAY.

What our currency system and our business requires is the proper distribution of the credit and paying power of the United States on sufficient collateral.

"Second—A merchant marine sufficiently great to transport American goods to all parts of the world and to bring back cargoes for American consumption, or for additional American manufacture."

Does any man doubt that some things are too big for the individual, but not too big for Government? The Panama Canal was too big a task for any individual, too big for all the power and unlimited resources of the French people acting in a private capacity.

But the Panama Canal was built by the United States Government quickly and more cheaply than it could have been built otherwise.

The mail-carrying power of the United States is too great for any individual, but easily within the power of the Government. We carry mail from Alaska to London for two cents. Would any private individual do that? Would any private concern refrain from increasing the rate with the increased demand, or lowering the service?

Can any man doubt that the duty of transporting heavy freight at sea and on land must become a Government duty—as the duty of transporting light parcels has just become a Government duty?

We need "a merchant marine sufficiently great to transport American goods to all parts of the world and to bring back cargoes," as Mr. Hearst has said.

And the power to do that work, to supply that merchant marine, is the power of the United States, and none other.

The Government must do TODAY WITH THE SHIPS OF THE NATION WHAT IT WILL SOON DO WITH THE RAILROADS OF THE NATION.

Government ownership of merchant marine must solve that problem.

"Third—a navy sufficiently powerful to protect our coasts and our commerce, our property and our people at home and abroad."

A man must be dull indeed, closely related to the class of microcephalic idiots, not to understand now the need of a great navy to protect our coasts. Look at the safe condition of England, thanks exclusively TO HER NAVY. Realize that the United States with an ocean three thousand miles on either side has above all need of ships on the water, under the water, and flying in the air above the water. The duty and the immediate task of the country is to supply a navy that will make all attacks preposterous and futile.

"Fourth—A governmental attitude of encouragement and co-operation as far as all legitimate business, big or little, is concerned."

This is the duty that the heads of Government must realize and fulfill.

What the head of a firm is to the business of the firm Government should be to the business of the United States.

What the head of a family is to that family Government should be to the people of the United States.

The development and building up of foreign trade, the encouragement of home industries with protection now and protection guaranteed in the future, the development of credit, especially for those entering upon new enterprises for which we have hitherto relied upon Europe—all that a Government with unlimited credit and unlimited power can do SHOULD BE DONE TO BUILD UP LEGITIMATE BUSINESS.

Government and the citizens should remember that BIG BUSINESS IS JUST AS LEGITIMATE AS LITTLE BUSINESS when it is honestly conducted.

"A Governmental attitude of encouragement and co-operation as far as ALL legitimate business is concerned" should be the aim of every man in office, and to bring it about should be the object of every citizen using all legitimate pressure upon those that hold office and draw pay from the citizens.

The nation has an opportunity that no nation has ever had in the world's history.

Other industries are destroyed, other nations are disorganized, other populations are decimated, demoralized, depressed and degraded by the trade of murder.

This country alone among the great nations of the world stands protected, safe from the brutal combat.

All the energies that others are giving to murder, disease and death we can devote to progress and national building.

With the four requisites specified above, plus intelligent public interest, this nation in the next ten years will double its prosperity, add fifty per cent. to its prosperous citizenship by the highest grade of immigration, and take a lead in the affairs of the world that need never be lost.

For we cannot help ourselves without helping others. We cannot build up our industries without preparing to supply the needs of others.

And we cannot make this country great and powerful through peace without doing the most important work in the world, which is to make the people of the world realize THAT PEACE IS THE ONLY SOLUTION OF NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL PROBLEMS.

The Star Rover

A Story with a Tremendous Idea Never Before Used in Fiction

By JACK LONDON

ALL my life I had an awareness of other times and places. I have been aware of other persons in me—oh, and trust me, so have you, my reader that is to be! Read back into your childhood, and this sense of awareness I speak of will be remembered as an experience of your childhood. You were then not fixed, not crystallized. You were plastic, a soul in flux, a consciousness and an identity in the process of forming—aye, of forming and forgetting.

You have forgotten much, my reader, and yet, as you read these lines, you remember dimly the hazy vistas of other times and places into which your child-eyes peered. They seem dreams to you, today. Yet, if they were dreams, dreamed then, whence the substance of them? Our dreams are grotesquely compounded of the things we know. The stuff of our sheerest dreams is the stuff of our experiences. As a child, a wee child, you dreamed you fell great heights; you dreamed you flew through the air as things of the air fly; you were vexed by crawling spiders and many-legged creatures of the slime; you heard other voices, saw other faces nightmarishly familiar, and gazed upon sunrises and sunsets other than you know now, looking back, you ever looked upon.

Very well. These child-glimpses are of other-worldness, of other-lifeness, of things that you had never seen in this particular world of your particular life. Then whence? Other lives? Other worlds? Perhaps, when you have read all that I shall write, you will have received answers to the perplexities I have propounded to you, and that you yourself ere you came to read me, propounded to yourself.

Wordsworth knew. He was neither seer nor prophet, but just ordinary man like you or any man. What he knew, you know, any man knows. But he most aptly stated it in his passage that begins, "Not in utter nakedness, not in entire forgetfulness——"

Ah, truly, shades of the prison-house close about us, the newborn things, and all too soon do we forget. And yet, when we were newborn we did remember other times and places. We, helpless infants in arms or creeping quadruped-like on the floor, dreamed our dreams of air-flight. Yes; and we endured the torment and torture of nightmare, fears of dim and monstrous things. We newborn infants, without experience, were born with fear, with memory of fear; and memory is experience.

As for myself, at the beginnings of my vocabulary, at so tender a period that I still made hunger-noises and sleep-noises, yet even then did I know that I had been a star-rover. Yes, I, whose lips had never lisped the word "king," remembered that I had once been the son of a king. More—I remembered that once I had been a slave and a son of a slave, and worn an iron collar round my neck.

Still more. When I was three, and four, and five years of age, I was not yet I. I was a mere becoming, a flux of spirit not yet cooled solid in the mold of my particular flesh and time and place. In that period, all that I had ever been in ten thousand lives before strove in me, and troubled the flux of me, in the effort to incorporate itself in me and become me.

Silly, isn't it? But remember, my reader, whom I hope to have travel far with me through time and space—remember, please, my reader, that I have thought much on these matters, that through bloody nights and sweats of dark that lasted years-long, I have been alone with my many selves to consult and contemplate my many selves. I have gone through the hells of all existences to bring you news which you will share with me in a casual, comfortable hour over my printed page.

So, to return, I say, during the ages of three and four and five, I was not yet I. I was merely becoming as I took form in the mold of my body, and all the mighty, indestructible past wrought in the mixture of me to determine what the form of that becoming would be. It was not my voice that cried out in the night in fear of things known, which I, forsooth, did not and could not know. The same with my childish angers, my loves, and my laughters. Other voices screamed through my voice, the voices of men and women aforetime, of all shadowy hosts of progenitors. And the snarl of my anger was blended with the snarls of beasts more ancient than the mountains, and the vocal madness of my child-hysteria, with all the red of its wrath, was chorded with the insensate, stupid cries of beasts preadamic and pregeologic in time.

And there the secret is out. The wrath! It has undone me in this, my present life. Because of it, a few short weeks hence, I shall be led from this cell to a high place with unstable flooring, graced above by a well-stretched rope; and there they will hang me by the neck until I am dead. The red wrath always has undone me in all my lives; for the red wrath is my disastrous, catastrophic heritage from the time of the slimy things ere the world was prime.

It is time that I introduce myself. I am neither fool nor lunatic. I want you to know that, in order that you will believe the things I shall tell you, I am Darrell Standing. Some few of you who read this will know me immediately. But to the majority, who are bound to be strangers, let me explain myself. Eight years ago, I was professor of agronomics in the College of Agriculture of the University of California. Eight years ago, the sleepy little university town of Berkeley was shocked by the murder of Professor Haskell in one of the laboratories of the Mining Building. Darrell Standing was the murderer.

I am Darrell Standing. I was caught red-handed. Now the right and the wrong of this affair with Professor Haskell I shall not discuss. It was purely a private matter. The point is that, in a surge of anger, obsessed by that catastrophic red wrath that has cursed me down the ages, I killed my fellow professor. The court records show that I did; and, for once, I agree with the court records.

No; I am not to be hanged for his murder. I received a life sentence for my punishment. I was thirty-six years of age at the time. I am now forty-four years old. I have spent the eight intervening years in the California State Prison of San Quentin. Five of these years I spent in the dark. Solitary confinement, they call it. Men who endure it call it living death. But through these five years of death-in-life I managed to attain freedom such as few men have ever known. Closest confined of prisoners, not only did I range the world but I ranged time. They who immured me for petty years gave to me, all unwittingly, the largest of centuries. Truly, thanks to Ed Morrell, I have had five years of star-roving. But Ed Morrell is another story. I shall tell you about him a little later. I have so much to tell I scarce know how to begin.

Well, a beginning. I was born on a quarter-section in Minnesota. My mother was the daughter of an immigrant Swede. Her name was Hilda Tonnesson. My father was Chauncey Standing, of old American stock. He traced back to Alfred Standing, an indentured servant, or slave, in Virginia, who was transported from England to the Virginia plantations in the days that were even old when the youthful Washington went surveying in the Pennsylvania wilderness.

A son of Alfred Standing fought in the War of the Revolution; a grandson, in the War of 1812. There have been no wars since in which the Standings have not been represented. I, the last of the Standings, dying soon without issue, fought as a common soldier in the Philippines, in our latest war, and to do so, I resigned, in the full early ripeness of career, my professorship in the University of Nebraska. Good heavens! When I so resigned, I was headed for the deanship of the College of Agriculture in that university—I, the star-rover, the red-blooded adventurer, the vagabondish Cain of the centuries, the militant priest of remotest times, the moon-dreaming poet of ages forgotten, and today unrecorded in man's history of man!

And here I am, my hands dyed red, in Murderers' Row, in the state prison of Folsom, awaiting the day decreed by the machinery of state when the servants of the State will lead me away into what they fondly believe is the dark—the dark they fear; the dark that gives them fearsome and superstitious fancies; the dark that drives them, driveling and yammering, to the altars of their fear-created, anthropomorphic gods.
